Welcome to OUR LADY of GRACE!

Welcome to all who are joining us for the celebration of the Eucharist. There are many ways and parish organizations to participate in our life in Christ. See the directory on page 7.

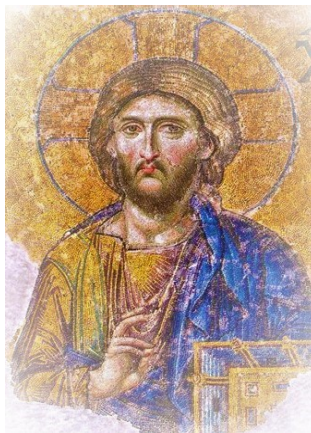

We invite all who attend OLG to become registered members of our parish. Registration forms are available on the table in the main entry of the church or the parish office. Registration allows us to communicate and effectively provide for your needs. It is necessary for baptism, marriage, and godparent or sponsor certification.

Mindfulness of Others—Please silence all devices and refrain from using them during the liturgy. The parish has a Children's Chapel located in the northwest corner of the church. Parents with restless children are welcome to make use of this chapel at any time during Mass should it be necessary. We ask that this chapel, like the church itself, remain free of food and drink.

Allergies—The first morning Mass of the Sunday or holy day will always be incense-free.

Invitation to the R.C.I.A.

Our Lady of Grace Parish welcomes all who seek to enrich their faith life and explore the possibility of becoming a Catholic Christian. Our community shares and celebrates this journey with them through a process called "The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults." If you are curious about what Catholics believe and may be interested in learning more about joining the Catholic faith—or perhaps you are an adult Catholic looking to be fully initiated—you are cordially invited to enter the R.C.I.A. process and experience a new and enriched meaning to your life through renewed faith and love. For more info, please contact Deacon John Sawaya at (858) 869-5079 or jsawaya@olg-church.org.

A Tale of Two Axes

Everyone beyond grade school age in this country knows the story of George Washington and his ax. On one side of the scene lies the felled cherry tree and an irate parent. On the other side stands young George, resolutely holding onto his integrity. “I cannot tell a lie,” he says. He may be a tree killer, but at least he’s an honest one.

We never learn why George thought it would make good sport to chop down a fruit-bearing tree. That gleaming ax may have been too tempting to pass up, and the tree a haplessly close target for the blade. Of course the point of the story is not about environmentalism but what qualities make for a good president. Someone who can be counted on to fess up even to shortsighted and misguided decision—and presumably to accept the consequences—must have seemed an ideal candidate for the job.

What’s left in the story, after George takes responsibility, is the stump of a tree, unable to give shade, bring forth blossoms in the spring, or produce fruit. A tree stump is a sad thing. It is a tombstone carved from the very thing it memorializes.

A shoot shall sprout

OK, that was a bonus ax story. There are two more given to us in the lectionary this week. This time, the scene opens long after the chopping, and no one is taking any responsibility. The house of Jesse, which is the house of David once removed, has been a dead stump for ages. Though God once promised David that his house would rule forever, it seems God must have had the divine fingers crossed during the pledge. The lineage of kings went as far as David’s son Solomon, then the tree was split in two and rival kingdoms ruled and fought and were eventually subdued by stronger forces altogether. Long gone are the northern kingdom of Israel and the southern kingdom of Judah. What’s left are the Roman occupation, a puppet king Herod, and a stump where the tree of Jesse once proudly stood.

Is it too much to imagine, 10 centuries after the time of David, that the stump of Jesse would produce another king? The prophet Isaiah, writing only three centuries after David, still felt hopeful. The roots of the kingdom are still there, he declares, and that is enough to produce a spring of renewed hope. The Spirit of the Lord is still willing to rest on such a king, and justice and peace might yet gather around his harmonious reign.

Then seven more centuries pass, and spring never arrives, and the king doesn’t come. Is it reasonable to keep our hopes fastened on this stump?

One mightier is coming

Enter John the Baptist. Now here’s a fellow you don’t want to trust with any stray axes lying around. He’s charismatic, fearless, confident, and wildly popular. He’s perfectly willing to point at the seats of power and accuse their inhabitants of the most outrageous things. All of which happen to be true, but what is truth?

John also cannot tell a lie, and he’ll lose his head for this indiscretion. In the meantime, he’s calling everyone within the sound of his voice to repent, turn around, change your life, a new Kingdom is coming! John even quotes Isaiah, the prophet of the original “return of the king.” At this point, the story begins to sound Tolkien-esque. The one who plunges all comers into the river proclaims the near arrival of one who will plunge his followers into Holy Spirit and fire. The average listener might wonder whether the times, bad as they were, really warranted a messiah.

And then John produces the eschatological ax, laid at the root of the trees from all eternity, ready to call forth God’s justice by separating the fruit-bearing from the ground-encumbering among us. If this doesn’t strike you as good news, then be forewarned that it doesn’t get any better than this in the prophecies of John. Even the mighty one, when he arrives, will be called the Lamb of God—the sacrificial lamb, let it be added. And though John wields the ax at the moment, it will come down on his own neck at the end. No one escapes the violence in John’s proclamation. This Kingdom, when it comes, comes bloody.

How about a nice Ad- vent message?

John's call to repentance is not, we should point out, the gospel of Jesus Christ. The gospel is eponymously good news. John's inter-testamental proclamation is more like Old Testament moralism as the Hebrew prophets served it up: Get your act together or know the wrath of God. Jesus begins his ministry on the hinge message of John: Repent, for the Kingdom is at hand. And then Jesus inaugurates this Kingdom and the universe swings wide open on its paradox. Sinners are now forgiven! The lame walk and the blind see! The dead rise again!

A hinge articulates in two directions, and so do the ministries of John and Jesus. If John emphasized the "repent" side of the message, Jesus spends more time telling stories of the Kingdom and its ways. John isn't wrong, strictly speaking; nor does he ever become a follower of Jesus. His job is to complete the past, to be the last signpost on the way to the future. John seemed to know this, as when he later acknowledged the need to decrease as Jesus increases. Maybe his recognition that the old prophetic style was passing made it easier for John to speak the truth to power. If you're on your way out, why not take the pillars down with you like Samson did?

Something has to die in order for something else to live, the botanists tell us. Scripture has the same message. We have to let go of the past, the old ways, the old self, in order to usher in the new life we long for. We can't serve two masters, and we can't have it both ways. You want new life? First you have to die to the old one. Now where's that ax?

FROM the PASTOR

VERY REV. PETER M. MCGUINE

Dear Parishioners,

As you know from my letter of last week, Mrs. Anne Egan, by mutual agreement and at her request, was released on Nov 22 from her contract to serve as principal of OLG School due to personal and family reasons that require more time and attention.

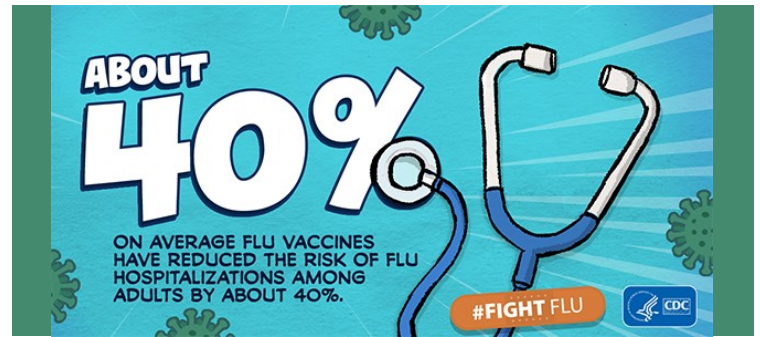

Today, I am pleased to share with you the news that Mrs. Erin Mares, our grade 8 homeroom teacher, has accepted my invitation to serve as the Interim Principal of OLG until a new principal search reaches its conclusion. This new search will begin in the early months of 2020 in conjunction with the Diocese of San Diego's Office for Schools.

The Thanksgiving holiday break at the school afforded me the opportunity to consider various scenarios regarding interim school leadership. I was able to consult with both Mrs. Rachel Sato, our Vice-Principal, and Mrs. Mares in person. I also heard, at my request, from many school employees about their suggestions as to how we should proceed.

Obviously, there have been some adjustments in the class schedules of our students in grades 6, 7 and 8 to accommodate the increased responsibilities Mrs. Mares will be assuming. Fortunately, our school has terrific teachers who were able to make the necessary adjustments.

Thank you for your continued support of our school. Together with Mrs. Mares, Mrs. Sato, our teachers, and all the employees of Our Lady of Grace, I'm very excited about the possibilities that lie ahead. I hope you are as well.

Our Lady, full of grace, pray for us!
