

The baptism of Jesus is the occasion on which he is equipped for his ministry by the holy Spirit and proclaimed to be the Son of God.

“The illusions of this world soon vanish, especially if a man arms himself with the Sign of the Cross. The devils tremble at the Sign of the Cross of our Lord, by which He triumphed over and disarmed them.”

St. Anthony, Abbot (251-356) Feast Day Jan 17

Welcome to OUR LADY of GRACE!

Welcome to all who are joining us for the celebration of the Eucharist. There are many ways and parish organizations to participate in our life in Christ. See the directory on page 7.

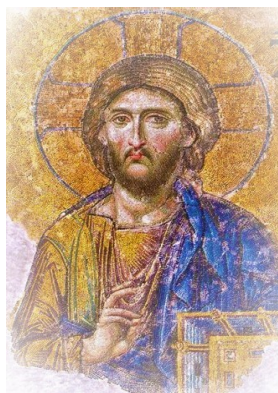

We invite all who attend OLG to become registered members of our parish. Registration forms are available on the table in the main entry of the church or the parish office. Registration allows us to communicate and effectively provide for your needs. It is necessary for baptism, marriage, and godparent or sponsor certification.

Mindfulness of Others—Please silence all devices and refrain from using them during the liturgy. The parish has a Children's Chapel located in the northwest corner of the church. Parents with restless children are welcome to make use of this chapel at any time during Mass should it be necessary. We ask that this chapel, like the church itself, remain free of food and drink.

Allergies—The first morning Mass of the Sunday or holy day will always be incense-free. The Sunday 11:00 am Mass will always include the use of incense.

Invitation to the R.C.I.A.

Our Lady of Grace Parish welcomes all who seek to enrich their faith life and explore the possibility of becoming a Catholic Christian. Our community shares and celebrates this journey with them through a process called “The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults.” If you are curious about what Catholics believe and may be interested in learning more about joining the Catholic faith—or perhaps you are an adult Catholic looking to be fully initiated—you are cordially invited to enter the R.C.I.A. process and experience a new and enriched meaning to your life through renewed faith and love. For more info, please contact Deacon John Sawaya at (858) 869-5079 or jsawaya@olg-church.org.

Give in for Now

Mortality being what it is, we are limited by definition. Most of the time we forget this as we bluster off into the thick of our lives, managing Herculean feats like raising children, committing our fidelity for life, accepting the suffering and death of those we love, and living with the ongoing surrender of youthful strength and beauty in exchange for the encroaching pain and disability of old age. These are huge undertakings, impossible to reconcile in abstraction but endured on a daily basis without fanfare by the folks sitting round us in the pews.

At the same time, all of these undertakings teach us challenging lessons about how truly fragile and ephemeral we are. Flesh is grass, scripture says; it rises up in a season, common and cheap, and then fades and dies without much notice. In another passage, it is noted that a human life is “70 years, or 80 for those who are strong.” That may seem like a lot of time in the beginning, but after three decades or so we start to appreciate how short the normal life span is. Not to mention the fact that our birth comes with no warranty, and we don’t get our money back if our particular life span is considerably shorter.

Acceptance of our finite condition allows us at least one precious gift: the absolute significance of the present moment.

The power of this hour

Those in 12-step recovery programs know well the fatal hubris involved in swearing off liquor, drugs, overeating, compulsive sex, gambling, or any other substance or behavior “forever.” Forever is a long time, and it’s not given to us mortals to dicker over. What we’ve got in our hands is the present hour, and therein lies all the authority over our lives that we will ever need. All we have to do, really, is commit to a certain responsibility or course of action today, right now, in this hour. Let tomorrow take care of itself—if we should have a tomorrow. Sufficient to the day is the evil thereof.

If we try to do otherwise—and we often do—then we find ourselves in the unlikely task of biting off eternity and trying to swallow it. We choke on the attempt. Instances of paralysis and indecision in our lives might be accounted for by the knowledge that we are seeking to do too much: making “forever” choices with finite hearts. If we are overwhelmed by life at times, we might step back from trying to live “our lives” and live only the next hour. Or the next five minutes. Or take the next breath. Those are significantly more manageable tasks, not to mention more sensible ones.

John the Baptist betrays that he is caught up in the Big Picture at the expense of the moment when Jesus comes to him for Baptism. John has been proclaiming a mighty, controversial, and dangerous message in a high profile sort of way and gathering gale force for a coming storm. To prepare the way of the Lord, John has also been performing Baptisms all day, all week, perhaps for a season or more. It should be second nature to him to perform one more. It should be his finest hour to receive the Lord for whom he has been preparing the nation. Instead John freezes, objects, finds himself at a loss to do the first thing his Lord asks him to do. Being wrapped up in the Big Picture, John cannot find himself in the simple and singular demand of this hour.

John’s problem and ours

It’s not that John doesn’t know how to do what Jesus asks. It’s that he’s confounded by the why of the request, not to mention the who and the what of it. John wants to understand it before he does it, and according to every path of reasoning, the thing doesn’t make sense. Baptism is for repentance—does Jesus need to repent? Baptism absolves us of past sin—does Jesus have any? Baptism prepares the way of the Lord—does Jesus mean to prepare the way for himself?

John has believed all the while that he is cooperating with the great divine plan, and has styled himself a mere voice in the wilderness who has abandoned ego and will in order to give God room to act. But in this hour, he is forced to recognize that his ego and will are quick to reassert themselves when the logic of the thing confounds him, as it does here. He will submit to God's plan entirely so long as he gets it. But if God introduces some inexplicable variables, John is fully prepared to balk.

I don't think this reaction is rare—it is among the most common spiritual obstacles we face. Being finite folk, we have a very limited perspective on what's going on, cosmically speaking. Logic is one of the big guns we pull out to blast away at life's dilemmas. Who hasn't drawn columns of pro and con on a piece of paper in an attempt to reason through a discernment? How many would-be saints have abandoned the path of faith altogether because they couldn't get their minds around some practical, factual concern?

It doesn't take a biggie like "virgin birth" to get our minds spinning in stunning denial. For John, the sinless one shouldn't be baptized; he should be baptizing! It was as simple as that.

Then he gave in

What it took John to breach the impasse was an act of surrender. He gave in "for now," or as the advertising wizards might say, he just did it. If John had foreseen where this whole divine pageant was going—Baptism, conflict, rejection, arrest, trial, condemnation, crucifixion—no doubt he would have really balked and been unable to continue in his share of the task. What would finite human reason make of the road Jesus was on? What good was knowing the Big Picture if it took away our ability to function in the present hour? "Give in for now" is a great motto for discipleship. Inch by inch, we make our way toward paradise.

FROM the PASTOR

VERY REV. PETER MCGUINE

Dear Parishioners,

With the middle of the flu season upon us, I'd like to share with you a few ways OLG will work to limit the spread of the flu virus starting on Mon, Jan 13:

- Communion will be offered in the form of consecrated bread alone.
- Consider receiving the host in the hand rather than by the mouth.
- Ministers, including priests, deacons, sacristans, servers and Extraordinary Ministers of the Eucharist, are reminded to practice good hygiene by washing their hands before Mass. Hand sanitizer is available at the credence table for those ministers to use before and after the distribution of communion.
- Parishioners are never under an obligation to shake hands with others during the Sign of Peace; a statement of peace, bow or other gesture is appropriate.
- It is not necessary to hold hands for the Lord's Prayer. While commonly done, this gesture is not prescribed by the Roman Missal.
- Anyone who is ill, or suspects oncoming symptoms, is legitimately excused from attending Mass. Those who are sick may wish to watch a broadcast of the Sunday Mass on their TV or over the Internet at home and pray in solidarity with the parish community.

Thank you for understanding. Once the flu season is over, around mid-April, we will reinstitute our traditional means of sharing the Sign of Peace and parish norm of distributing communion from the cup at each celebration of the Eucharist.

Fr. Peter

Out of the Mouths of Kids

Teacher: How old is your father?

Kid: He is 6 years.

Teacher: How is this possible?

Kid: He became father only when I was born.
(Logic!!)

Teacher: Your composition on 'My Dog' is exactly the same as your brothers.

Kid: No, sir; It's the same dog.

Dear parishioners,

On behalf of all the priests, Deacon John, parish employees and school staff, thank you very much for your many gifts, kind words and gestures of appreciation during the Christmas season. All of them mean a great deal to us who take great pleasure in serving here at OLG.

Our Lady, full of grace, pray for us!
