Welcome to OUR LADY of GRACE!

Welcome to all who are joining us for the celebration of the Eucharist. There are many ways and parish organizations to participate in our life in Christ. See the directory on page 7.

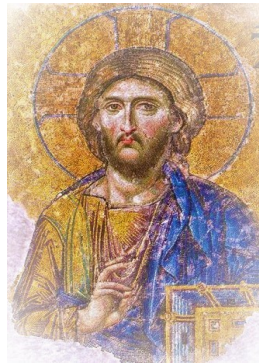

We invite all who attend OLG to become registered members of our parish. Registration forms are available on the table in the main entry of the church or the parish office. Registration allows us to communicate and effectively provide for your needs. It is necessary for baptism, marriage, and godparent or sponsor certification.

Mindfulness of Others—Please silence all devices and refrain from using them during the liturgy. The parish has a Children's Chapel located in the northwest corner of the church. Parents with restless children are welcome to make use of this chapel. We ask that this chapel, like the church itself, remain free of food and drink.

Allergies—The first morning Mass of the Sunday or feast day will always be incense-free.

Invitation to the RCIA

Our Lady of Grace Parish welcomes all who seek to enrich their faith life and explore the possibility of becoming a Catholic Christian. Our community shares and celebrates this journey with them through a process called "The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults." If you are curious about what Catholics believe and may be interested in learning more about joining the Catholic faith—or perhaps you are an adult Catholic looking to be fully initiated—you are cordially invited to enter the RCIA process and experience a new and enriched meaning to your life through renewed faith and love. For more information, please contact Deacon John Sawaya at (858) 869-5079 or jsawaya@olg-church.org.

GUEST COLUMNIST

ALICE CAMILLE

Forsaken or Delighted?

“That woman,” a friend observed, nodding to a somber figure across the room, “is followed by a black cloud.” What he meant was that the person in question seemed perpetually haunted, a steadfast messenger of bad news and victim of “unlucky breaks.” We are all subject to difficult times, of course, and may have long seasons of unavoidable unhappiness. But some people seem to settle into darkness and reside there permanently and deliberately. They find their comfort zone, we might say, in being forsaken. Some folks take their identity from this attitude and wouldn’t recognize themselves any other way.

If individuals can take on a persona of rejection and dejection, so too can communities and even nations. Oppressed and economically imperiled groups often internalize their experience and become locked into a cycle of “thinking poor.” People suffering from long-term illness or disability may retreat into their suffering until they forget how to be more than the sum of their limitations. Just as wage earners can lose sight of the fact that they are more than their jobs, we all too easily get lost in the roles we play or the events of our lives that sweep us up (or down) and carry us off where we would not willingly go. Once there, we are in danger of not making our way back to our truer, richer selves.

Attitude: the needle of the compass

Perhaps that was the experience of the people of Israel when the prophet delivered his oracle from the Lord. They were used to being jeered at as “forsaken” by foreign peoples because of the hardships they faced. Famine, war, and exile in turn made them desolate and seem abandoned by the God they prayed to for help. Did God hear their prayers? Didn’t the Lord care about their suffering?

Exiled in a foreign land for a generation, perhaps the Israelites internalized the idea that they were indeed forsaken and desolate. Sticks and stones may break our bones, but names only hurt us when we believe that’s who we really are.

So Isaiah proclaimed the message that God had names for Israel, too: To the Lord, these people were “my delight” and “espoused.” Tell that to the nations who disparaged this holy people! If Israel held onto this true identity and whispered these comforting names in the dark, they would already be one step down the road to regaining the light.

Our belief shapes who we are

A person who believes that nothing good can happen to him or her probably will reject or rename anything good that shows up on the radar screen to suit the self-fulfilling prophecy. But we are called to be a people of hope, the delight of God no less! Do we believe that, and how do we live into that identity with the direction we are taking and the decisions we are making?

Think about it: There are two ways to approach every situation. One is to say, This is how things are. The other is to say, This is how they could be. At Cana, Mary of Nazareth shows us what the possibilities are when we refuse the easy surrender to what is in favor of what could be. At the wedding that day, there is a conspicuous shortage of wine that threatens to break up the celebration—and wedding parties back then could last as long as a week. Was the wine gone in only a day, or two? However long it took to run out, no wine spelled the end of the party for sure unless something could be done, and quickly.

Mary could have sighed like everyone else did as they tipped the wineskins and came up dry: “Oh, dear. No more wine.” And headed for the door to go home. But Mary went to the one sure source of every Christian celebration for the next 2,000 years and reported the situation: “They have no wine.” These weren’t words of resignation and defeat. They were expectant words, anticipating an active response.

Taking the next step

The initial reply she gets from Jesus is not exactly affirming. He basically questions what she expects him to do about it. And her reply is a model for us: She makes a perfect act of faith. Approaching the servers, she says, “Do whatever he tells you.” She leaves it up to Jesus to decide how to keep the party going. But she clearly believes he can and he will.

Mary’s example is instructive to us as we meet the challenges of life: First, take them to Jesus. Second, believe that he can and will do something about it. Third, do what we can to prepare the way for divine action. Finally, get out of the way and let it happen!

The miracle at Cana is known as the first recorded sign of Jesus' identity in the Gospel of John. But Mary's example reveals who we are, too, as people of faith, by showing us how the life of perfect discipleship is led.

Keeping the party going

As Christians, our job is to keep the celebration of Good News going in every generation until the end of time. That is a tall order, considering that war and famine and run-of-the-mill human suffering haven't changed a whole lot in 2,000 years. Often it seems that humanity is running out of wine, and the party's just about over. Some of us remember sitting up in our college dorm rooms talking about The Bomb and how it could all be over in a flash of nuclear holocaust. Many people in our world still live with the threat of bombs hanging over their heads or grave illness or simple, deadly hunger. On what grounds and under what authority, then, do we party?

On the grounds of our faith in Jesus Christ and under his authority! Faith tells us that he is the Lord of life, the conqueror of sin and death and everything in between that causes human suffering. If we believe this, we have much to celebrate, and like Mary, we know what to do.
