Welcome to OUR LADY of GRACE!

Welcome to all who are joining us for the celebration of the Eucharist. There are many ways and parish organizations to participate in our life in Christ. See the directory on page 7.

We invite all who attend OLG to become registered members of our parish. Registration forms are available on the table in the main entry of the church or the parish office. Registration allows us to communicate and effectively provide for your needs. It is necessary for baptism, marriage, and godparent or sponsor certification.

Mindfulness of Others—Please silence all devices and refrain from using them during the liturgy. The parish has a Children's Chapel located in the northwest corner of the church. Parents with restless children are welcome to make use of this chapel at any time during Mass should it be necessary. We ask that this chapel, like the church itself, remain free of food and drink.

Allergies—The first morning Mass of the Sunday or holy day will always be incense-free. The Sunday 11:00 am Mass will always include the use of incense.

Invitation to the R.C.I.A.

Our Lady of Grace Parish welcomes all who seek to enrich their faith life and explore the possibility of becoming a Catholic Christian. Our community shares and celebrates this journey with them through a process called "The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults." If you are curious about what Catholics believe and may be interested in learning more about joining the Catholic faith—or perhaps you are an adult Catholic looking to be fully initiated—you are cordially invited to enter the R.C.I.A. process and experience a new and enriched meaning to your life through renewed faith and love. Please contact Deacon John Sawaya at (858) 869-5079 or use the "Contact us" link on the parish webpage.

GUEST COLUMNIST

ALICE CAMILLE

Is Christ Divided?

We know that we live in a divided nation. Politically we are not all on the same page. Economically, racially, ethnically, and religiously, Americans do not share the same perspective or the same reality. Some live in gated communities, others sleep on subway grates. One man dines at fancy restaurants, another takes his supper out of a paper sack from McDonald's. One woman faces a lifetime of sexist or racist putdowns, while another's privileged status allows her to ride along on a sense of entitlement. One of us is reading Proust. Another can't read at all.

The religious divide has become among the greatest chasms we face. Jews, Christians, and Muslims have had centuries of antagonism and aggression between them according to the history books, but present-day conflicts and hostilities make the historical horror very immediate and tangible to all of us.

But perhaps what ought to concern us as much or even more is the apparent lack of cooperation and outright feuding between one set of Christians and another. Fundamentalists can't dialogue with evangelicals, and high church rarely stoops to talk to low church.

Just Jesus

Recently, a neighbor of mine took ill with some form of cancer. I did not know her at all—she and her husband keep to themselves. But shortly after her illness was disclosed to the neighborhood through the usual grapevine, a notice appeared in all of our mailboxes inviting us to a prayer meeting at the home where illness had taken residence. “No dogma, no arguments,” it promised. “Just Jesus.” I did not attend. No one from the neighborhood did. A few cars showed up on the designated night, presumably from the couple's church, wherever and whatever that might be. I felt bad, peeking out the curtains at the activity across the street that night. I wondered why going to an unspecific Christian prayer event seemed so intimidating.

Like most people, I've had a peek at lots of different faith perspectives due to weddings, funerals, and good old-fashioned curiosity. I've sat through services that were unfamiliar and uncomfortable, as well as fascinating and agreeable. (That's been true in Catholic churches as well.) Attending worship that is interdenominational or even interfaith has been enriching to my understanding and added new perspective on my own tradition by way of comparison. But each time is a departure by night in a boat so fragile that it does not invite confidence.

Come follow—who?

Jesus walked along the shore of Galilee and called some folk to follow him. We know that at least some of them did: Simon Peter and Andrew, James and John. Did they know whom it was they were following? It's not likely. Jesus' ministry had barely begun, and in Matthew's account, so far Jesus' greatest achievements were growing to adulthood and wrestling down the devil alone in the desert. The fact that these four men dropped everything to follow Jesus says more about the prospects of Galilean fishermen than it makes a faith statement about this crew.

They followed a virtual stranger. And so do we all, in the beginning of our journey in faith. This Christ in whose name we were baptized is not our brother or our friend—much less our Lord—when we start out. He's just an invitation, and maybe we are bored or dissatisfied or curious or desperate enough to accept it. What happens after that depends on how the relationship develops from there, or if it does.

Paul saw full well what happens when the relationship goes awry, as it did in Corinth. Some who heard about Jesus from Paul thought they were following Paul! And others followed their own messengers, Apollos or Peter (Cephas). Some of us, it should be admitted, are still following dearly departed Monsignor Hart, old Sister Amandine from the fifth grade, the RCIA director who brought us into the church, the pastor before this one, or whoever it was with whom we were first spiritually smitten. Yet whomever we follow, however admirable, is the wrong guide unless we follow Jesus first and foremost.

Dispelled is darkness

After the Second Vatican Council in the 1960s, the desire for Christian unity seemed fresh and acute throughout the churches. The hope of getting back to "just Jesus" seemed newly possible, as if structures and schisms and mutual condemnations could be swept away by the sheer force of goodwill. We visited each other's churches. And we went back to our own. A half-century and more later, the conversation appears to have reached an epic lull. Is there nothing more to say to each other, and is this as good as it gets?

The late Cardinal Joseph Bernardin of Chicago identified the scary absence of common ground even within the ranks of Catholics, and how our internal conversation was descending into ever greater suspicion, accusation, and disavowal. Both chasms opened up for the same reason, one might suggest: We have taken our eyes off Jesus. We have chosen instead to follow this leader or that ideology, and we've lost sight of the stranger who once walked along the shores of our life and invited us to fall in behind him. When Christianity gets separated from Jesus, as Paul was the first to grasp, it quickly becomes a mutant thing, easily manipulated by worldly concerns and losing its focus from the central to the merely incidental. We may not know fully who Jesus is, but we do all agree that he is the one we are following, right? Maybe. I hope so. It is the only way through.
