Welcome to OUR LADY of GRACE!

Welcome to all who are joining us for the celebration of the Eucharist. There are many ways and parish organizations to participate in our life in Christ. See the directory on page 7.

We invite all who attend OLG to become registered members of our parish. Registration forms are available on the table in the main entry of the church or the parish office. Registration allows us to communicate and effectively provide for your needs. It is necessary for baptism, marriage, and godparent or sponsor certification.

Mindfulness of Others—Please silence all devices and refrain from using them during the liturgy. The parish has a Children's Chapel located in the northwest corner of the church. Parents with restless children are welcome to make use of this chapel at any time during Mass should it be necessary. We ask that this chapel, like the church itself, remain free of food and drink.

Allergies—The first morning Mass of the Sunday or holy day will always be incense-free. The Sunday 11:00 am Mass will always include the use of incense.

Invitation to the R.C.I.A.

Our Lady of Grace Parish welcomes all who seek to enrich their faith life and explore the possibility of becoming a Catholic Christian. Our community shares and celebrates this journey with them through a process called "The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults." If you are curious about what Catholics believe and may be interested in learning more about joining the Catholic faith—or perhaps you are an adult Catholic looking to be fully initiated—you are cordially invited to enter the R.C.I.A. process and experience a new and enriched meaning to your life through renewed faith and love. For more info, please contact Deacon John Sawaya at (858) 869-5079 or jsawaya@olg-church.org.

Taking Directions

Why are so many of us reluctant to ask for directions? I don't have a macho bone in my body and yet I hesitate—till I am good and lost—before I'll stop someone for help. Maybe it's because we don't like to appear weak or fallible, though we are surely both. Maybe it's a self-esteem issue for some: We're too shy or we don't like to be a bother and halt another's progress. Or else it's the opposite problem: We believe too highly in our own interior compass. Whatever the reason, many of us would rather fumble around indefinitely and hope for the best than to ask for assistance.

But often in life, finding our way is more than a mastery of north, south, east, and west. I had friends in college with five-, 10-, and 20-year life plans. They could tell you precisely when they'd marry, how many children they would have, and where they expected to work and live at each stage of life as if they had a crystal ball. I wondered what would happen to those plans if they didn't meet their presumed partner on schedule, if the economy radically shifted, or if the Christmas-card perfect children didn't materialize as dictated. When life fails to deliver on our expectations and assumptions, we may find ourselves traveling a dark and unfamiliar road where the only sure thing is uncertainty.

The lords of elsewhere

Not all unexpected bends in the road are disappointing, of course. I grew up in a small town and never imagined myself in a bustling city. Yet it happened and the change was terrific. Once established as an urban dweller, I did not doubt I'd spend the rest of my life in one huge metropolitan center or another. And here I am back in a tiny burg and loving it.

When the ancient prophets had visions of change, some predictions were terrifying but others were downright grand. Isaiah imagines that Israel, so long a backwater of the civilized world, would someday be an international destination. The riches that were so often carried out of its pillaged cities would one day return on caravans of camels. Its kings had been dragged from Jerusalem in chains into exile. But one day foreign kings would walk to Jerusalem, dazzled by the capital's radiance. The psalmist echoes the sentiment in imagining kings of Tarshish and the Isles, Arabia and Seba—lords of elsewhere north, south, and west—paying tribute to Israel. If the biblical history of Solomon is to be credited, Israel enjoyed at least one hour of greatness that brought rulers from as far as Sheba to pay honor. So for the nation's seers, it was not impossible to conceive that Israel might one day recover that prestige.

What would bring the lords of elsewhere to Jerusalem was not an intellectual assent that Israel was a world superpower or anything like that, of course. These rulers would be drawn irresistibly by the majesty of the place, epitomized by the glory of Israel's God. Wondrous things compel human wonder in response. The God who rules with justice and the society that imitates divine justice would provoke that international open-mouthed awe.

No one would have to ask for directions to find their way to such a kingdom. They would simply have to follow their hearts.

Magi from the east

Wise men, astrologers, magicians, priests, royalty—who knows what the Magi were? The only other memorable reference in the New Testament to their profession concerns Simon Magus, who was a wonderworker of some sort at the time of the apostles. We know that dealers in wonder are a mixed bag in the Bible. Some operate under divine authority and others dabbled in the occult. Still others were simply charlatans. But if there can be good thieves, tax collectors like Matthew, and Pharisees like Paul, we have to admit that categories can be deceiving in the gospels. If the Magi were occult leaders, they were also reliable ones. What makes them reliable is that they do not undertake their journey under their own volition and by their own modest powers.

Out of the Mouths of Kids!

A small boy told his Catechist: "When you die, God takes care of you like your parents did when you were alive — only God doesn't yell at you all the time."

A Catechist said to her children, "We have been learning about how powerful the kings and queens were in Biblical times. But there is a higher power. Who can tell me what it is?"

Tommy blurted out, "I know, Aces."

After telling the children the story of Adam and Eve, a Catechist asked them to draw a picture. One little boy drew a Cadillac with three people in it. When told it had nothing to do with the story, he looked up in astonishment and replied, "But you said 'God drove them out of the garden!' "

They are led: first by a star and later by a dream. This willingness to be taken by the hand of heaven and guided along the way is a sign of deep humility and a hearty amount of trust in a Higher Power. They clearly did not know the One who compelled their journey or their worship. Yet like children, they fell in behind the leadership of the star and went.

Travel wasn't a leisurely adventure in those times. It was expensive, perilous, and decidedly uncomfortable. You didn't take to the roads unless there was no other way to conduct your business. Homage is one of those things you can't send by letter. It requires a personal act of submission, which the Magi were prepared to offer to the unknown king. But pride wasn't an obstacle these men faced. They were even willing to ask for directions! When they got to Jerusalem, they immediately inquired in the streets for the whereabouts of the new king. That got Herod's attention. These three trusting souls found themselves making inquiry of the least likely man in Israel to join them in honoring a new king. Happily, they did not allow Herod's authority to rule over the inner imperative of the dream that directed them to take another route on their way home.

Go and search diligently

From whom are we most likely to take directions? Do worldly powers impress us enough to derail our path? Do we pledge allegiance only to our own authority, our own opinions, or our own will? Is there anything outside of ourselves that might compel us to fall on our knees and lower our eyes? Most of all, are we willing to take the journey of faith, an enterprise that requires us by definition to surrender, change, and grow? Are we willing to be led along a path we cannot predestine or control, toward a goal we only vaguely apprehend?

These are hard questions, but this is what Epiphany demands of us. God manifests the divine presence before the world. But the only way to see it is to be led there like a child.

Why not shoot for radiance in 2020?

There's not much we can do about last year—beyond remembering and, perhaps, repenting. But the new year is laid out before us smooth as glass and innocent as a baby. Why not aim higher, cast our thoughts in a more benevolent direction, and shoot for radiance? Isaiah leads the way, beckoning us to walk in celestial light. A certain group of Magi did just that, and it led them to the Christ child. Affix a star where you can see it regularly. Let it remind you to keep your attention on the child at the end of its rays.

"Then you shall be radiant at what you see, your heart shall throb and overflow." ~Is 60:5a

20 + C + M + B + 20 "May Christ Bless the House"

A fun Epiphany activity for your family is to "Chalk the Door." The equation is written over the front door of your home—the first two digits of the year, followed by the initials C, M, and B, followed by the last two digits of the year. Each portion is separated by crosses. The chalking holds two meanings. The C, M, and B, refer to the traditional names of the Magi: Caspar, Melchior, and Balthasar. The letters also stand for the Latin phrase "Christus mansionem benedicat" which means "May Christ bless the house." The 20 and 20 simply refer to the year. Happy Epiphany!
