Adoration Chapel Schedule

The Blessed Sacrament Adoration Chapel will be closed from 4:30 to 5:00 pm, Mon-Wed-Fri, for a thorough cleaning.

Public Mass Update

Reservations for seats at Sunday Vigil and Sunday Masses can be accessed through the parish webpage at olg-church.org. Look for the NOTICE box.

Masses are being Streamed Online

On the parish website we have listed multiple links to options to participate in Sunday and daily Mass online in the Diocese of San Diego and beyond. Visit olg-church.org and click on the gray "Parish Update..." button and then the yellow "Sustaining Faith in the Time of Pandemic" button. Scroll to listed Mass links.

Welcome to OUR LADY of GRACE!

Welcome to all who are joining us for the celebration of the Eucharist. There are many ways and parish organizations to participate in our life in Christ. See the directory on page 7.

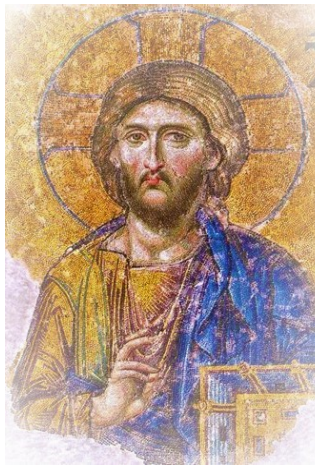

We invite all who attend OLG to become registered members of our parish. Registration forms are available on the table in the main entry of the church or the parish office. Registration allows us to communicate and effectively provide for your needs. It is necessary for baptism, marriage, and godparent or sponsor certification.

Mindfulness of Others—Please silence all devices and refrain from using them during the liturgy. The parish has a Children's Chapel located in the northwest corner of the church. Parents with restless children are welcome to make use of this chapel at any time during Mass should it be necessary. We ask that this chapel, like the church itself, remain free of food and drink.

Allergies—The first morning Mass of the Sunday or holy day will always be incense-free. The Sunday 11:00 am Mass will often include the use of incense.

Invitation to the R.C.I.A.

Our Lady of Grace Parish welcomes all who seek to enrich their faith life and explore the possibility of becoming a Catholic Christian. Our community shares and celebrates this journey with them through a process called "The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults." If you are curious about what Catholics believe and may be interested in learning more about joining the Catholic faith—or perhaps you are an adult Catholic looking to be fully initiated—you are cordially invited to enter the R.C.I.A. process and experience a new and enriched meaning to your life through renewed faith and love. Please contact Deacon John Sawaya at (858) 869-5079 or use the "Contact us" link on the parish webpage.

GUEST COLUMNIST

ALICE CAMILLE

Making Room for Prophets

When I was 14, I was the sort of shy, nervous adolescent you find in every high school. I hung with a group of 10 friends, all of whom shared a gawky lack of confidence. Our bond was that we were in hiding together, mutually scared of being visible—whether that meant being called on to perform in class or spoken to by anyone not belonging to our group. We didn't join clubs, try out for sports or plays, or run for student offices. No one thought of us in terms of leadership potential, and few teachers even noticed us.

But one teacher did. She took us aside individually and talked to us about our academic strengths and possibilities. She commented on the little things that made each of us interesting: one girl's sharp wit, another's head for science, the way a third used language poetically. She even told me, quite improbably, that I was the unacknowledged center of the group and that people followed my lead whether I knew it or not. Most of us didn't know what to make of these strange ideas being injected into our midst. Was there any truth in these things, or was it all just grown-up pep talk? We didn't know what to believe, but we felt the hunger generated in us to hear more. This one teacher's words became words of life for us, because they saw through who we thought we were, all the way to who we might become.

Before this teacher spoke to us, my mission in life was to fade into the woodwork and become no one in particular. Everything I've done and been since that encounter is due in some degree to her prophecies about me. We think of prophets as people who predict the future, when in fact their message is acutely aimed at the present. The only weapon wielded by the prophet is the truth, and that is the same yesterday, today, and forever.

A double portion of prophecy

If we understand the story correctly, Elijah and Elisha were the greatest prophets of Hebrew history, and Elisha inherited a double portion of what his master had, which makes him the number-one prophet of Old Testament times. As if to prove the point, the Second Book of Kings records twice as many miraculous and prophetic acts by Elisha as Elijah had performed. When we peruse the list—floating ax heads, multiplied loaves, the redemption of poisoned stew, one child raised from the dead while others are mauled by bears—we are forced to consider that not all miracles are created equal. But when it comes to the deliverance of oracles in particular, we acknowledge a remarkable similarity. The death of a king is prophesied, and the man dutifully meets his end. Another man is destined to rise, and he takes his place on the throne in due time.

Kingdoms are won and battles are lost on a word from the prophet.

We might ask the question: Is it the word of the prophet—understood to be the efficacious word of the Lord—that makes these things come true? Or does the prophet simply tell what is to come, a future that would have come into being even if it had not been spoken into the world beforehand? In other words, is the power of the prophet in promoting or predicting a certain reality? The two might have more in common than what distinguishes them. When I think of the observations my high school teacher made about each of us long ago, I realize she didn't say any more than what was already there. But would we have recognized those qualities in ourselves and acted on them if we had never heard them spoken out loud? Do prophets simply harness the creative power of the word to become flesh and dwell dynamically in our midst?

The prophet's reward

Jesus taught his disciples that to receive a prophet is as good as receiving what a prophet inherits—the person and the gift are inseparable. Clearing space for prophecy to inhabit our lives as the Shunemite woman did allows us to participate in the gift of prophecy as much as if we became prophets ourselves. What is not said is that aligning ourselves with prophets means we might also share in the destiny of prophets, which is often to be persecuted and put to death for speaking unpopular truths. No one said the truth was easy to live with. Jesus, who calls himself the Truth, is predictably a challenging housemate.

But beyond the threat of death, prophets bring with them the hope of life where it has seemed impossible, as the Shunemite woman discovers. Life from barrenness, life restored even after death has claimed it, is reliable territory for those who wield the word of God. This is why Paul has no hesitation in suggesting that we are baptized into the death of Christ—and that such a sacramental share in death will enable us to live in newness of life. Dying with Christ is the surest route to a release from the power of death altogether. Not everyone is going to accept this word, of course. And without acceptance, prophetic words like these may not bear their reality home to us.

Amen, let us not lose this reward!

Churchgoers have one huge advantage over those who spend Sunday morning at home with the weekend paper. We hear the efficacious word of God proclaimed reliably to us many times over, in the three readings of the Liturgy of the Word, not to mention the psalm we chant responsively and the scripture-based hymns we may sing together throughout the Mass. We have the Word made flesh delivered into our hands in the Eucharist, and we swallow this same Word from the cup poured out for our sake. Over and over for an hour, the Word that changes everything comes into our midst and is offered to us. We can depart each celebration with new possibilities if we embrace the Word as true for us.

A Little Humor

A father had been teaching his three year old daughter the Lord's Prayer for several evenings at bedtime. She would repeat after him the lines from the prayer. Finally, she decided to go solo. Her dad listened with pride as she enunciated each word right up to the end of the prayer: "Lead us not into temptation," she prayed,

"and deliver us from email."

♦ Wife texts her husband on a cold winter morning: Windows frozen. Won't open. Husband texts wife: Gently pour lukewarm water on the edges. Then tap sharply with hammer. Wife texts five minutes later: Laptop is really bugged up now.

AROUND THE DIOCESE

Emergency Food Distribution Network

In partnership with the Diocese of San Diego, Catholic Charities has created the Emergency Food Distribution Network to distribute food to those in need in a safe, effective and reliable manner that complies with COVID-19 social distancing requirements. Through drive-thru food pantries and online request home-delivered food package pick-ups from distribution sites. To learn more about using this service or volunteering please visit ccdsd.org/efdn.

Scholarship Opportunity for JPCatholic

Are you looking for an affordable and on-campus Catholic education this Fall? To help meet the urgent need of local students whose ability to obtain a Catholic university education has been jeopardized by the COVID-19 pandemic, John Paul the Great Catholic University in Escondido is offering two new scholarship programs for incoming freshmen and transfer students who start at JPCatholic in Fall 2020.

One of these scholarships is the COVID Zero Tuition scholarship for Cal Grant-A eligible students; when combined with state and federal aid, it can cover FULL tuition without any need for loans! JPCatholic offers programs in creative arts, media, business innovation and theology—and classes will be on campus this fall. You can learn more about the scholarships, sign up for Virtual Campus Tour and apply for free at jpcatholic.edu/local.

The New Teacher

A new grade one teacher was three months into the new school year and she was getting more and more exasperated with the children losing and forgetting things like pencils, crayons, shoes, lunches, etc.

One day she just lost it and proclaimed to the children, "If I forgot and lost as many things as you children do, why, my boss would fire me!"

A child in the front row raised her hand and said, "Miss! Do you work somewhere?"
