Welcome to OUR LADY of GRACE!

Welcome to all who are joining us for the celebration of the Eucharist. There are many ways and parish organizations to participate in our life in Christ. See the directory on page 7.

We invite all who attend OLG to become registered members of our parish. Registration forms are available on the table in the main entry of the church or the parish office. Registration allows us to communicate and effectively provide for your needs. It is necessary for baptism, marriage, and godparent or sponsor certification.

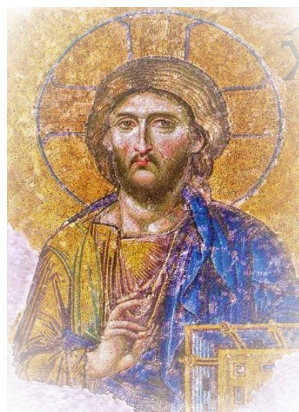

Mindfulness of Others—Please silence all devices and refrain from using them during the liturgy. The parish has a Children's Chapel located in the northwest corner of the church. Parents with restless children are welcome to make use of this chapel. We ask that this chapel, like the church itself, remain free of food and drink.

Allergies—The first morning Mass of the Sunday or feast day will always be incense-free.

Invitation to the RCIA

Our Lady of Grace Parish welcomes all who seek to enrich their faith life and explore the possibility of becoming a Catholic Christian. Our community shares and celebrates this journey with them through a process called "The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults." If you are curious about what Catholics believe and may be interested in learning more about joining the Catholic faith—or perhaps you are an adult Catholic looking to be fully initiated—you are cordially invited to enter the RCIA process and experience a new and enriched meaning to your life through renewed faith and love. For more info, please contact Deacon John Sawaya at (858) 869-5079 or jsawaya@olg-church.org.

Teaching the Mystery

In parishes across the Christian world, preachers commenting on the teaching of the Trinity will be sorely tempted to say something about Saint Patrick's shamrock. Variations on this theme, in my experience, have included tricycles (three wheels, bearing the faithful along in one direction) and the U.S. government (three branches—executive, legislative, judicial—one purpose, to serve the people!). Here's a suggestion: Resist this temptation to reduce a mystery to utter manageability. It's lame, a tad offensive, and, besides, it doesn't work. It is human nature to get attached to the metaphor and not let it go. The whole time you are speaking, your listeners are back at the introduction of the image, wondering: If God is a shamrock, what are we to make of a four-leaf clover? The members of your assembly will be assigning Father, Son, and Spirit to various positions on your model (front wheel or back? If Jesus is judicial, then the Holy Spirit is legislative?).

Doing the geometry or the arithmetic on the Trinity is equally frustrating, like presenting to a classroom an unsolvable problem. God is Three-in-One, some homilists will declare. Actually, One-in-Three, others will correct. We find ourselves back on the beach with Augustine, watching the child digging a hole and filling it with the ocean, bucket by bucket. If we stay at this long enough, we get nowhere fast and miss another teachable moment, while the ocean passes through the sand and vanishes.

How to talk Trinity

The Catechism of the Catholic Church notes that Christians are baptized in the name of the Father, Son, and Spirit—not in the names. God is revealed as Father, Son, and Spirit, but remains one Being. We do not have three Gods, so we are at pains not to say “they” or to speak of “them” in discussing the Trinity. Yet nonetheless we have come to know God in three ways that appear discrete to us within the limitations of time and space. So the first thing we learn about God in Trinity is this: that the nature of God is a unity. Over the course of human history we have met the Holy One as Creator, Redeemer, and Sanctifier. The purpose of God's relationship with us remains the same in each encounter: to share the gift of divine life with us.

Teaching God as a unity is fundamental because we are a monotheistic religion. All too often presentations about the Trinity result in producing the opposite impression: an image of God as a triple threat or polytheistic safety net—or at best, the actor in three distinct divine transactions in human history. There is one “transaction,” if we are to use the word, and that is love. Even in our human relationships, the language of love is spoken in a variety of ways depending on the context: parental, fraternal, sexual, communal, to name a few. That God is revealed to us as source of life, restorer of life, and expander of life's possibilities should be no surprise to anyone who has known the dynamic character of loving relationships.

If God is one, why talk Trinity at all?

What can we learn from the concept of Trinity that we don't get straight from monotheism? Here, the multiple naming of God does apply. The Creator, also known as Most High and Almighty, “The God Who Is” as Moses was given to understand, can be personable and close at hand but ever remains an awe-inspiring presence. Though willing to enter into committed relationships with individuals and their descendants, this God is still experienced fearfully as cloud and fire, roaring wind and thunder, burning bush or smoking oven.

Jesus, however, reintroduces us to the Most High God as “Father.” The name does not suggest gender so much as startling proximity and intimacy, the sort of familial communion that those of a common flesh, blood, home, and story share. God is most certainly that Holy Other who spoke to Adam, Abraham, Moses, and Mary. But in that last conversation with Mary, God also took up residence within her, and through her with the likes of us. We could never have known God as Father (or Mother or Family if you prefer) if not for the one who knew himself as Son.

The God Who Is stands outside of human history but intersects with it upon selec-

FROM the PASTOR

VERY REV. PETER MCGUINE

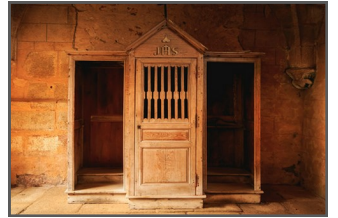

"Seal of Confession" Threatened

A matter of great urgency related our ability as Catholics to freely provide and receive the Sacrament of Confession in California has arisen in the form of a proposed law, Senate Bill 360. The "Seal of Confession" – so important for the penitent to feel that they can freely confess their sins and find Reconciliation with God – would be broken by SB 360. This proposed government intrusion into such a central Catholic practice is an affront to our faith and it should be viewed by all as a threat to religious liberty. Our Church is fully supportive of legal initiatives to prevent child abuse. Dioceses throughout the State have devoted a tremendous amount of human and financial resources to training, protective measures and reporting on this issue.

It is important that we as Catholics make our voices heard to those lawmakers who will decide whether this bill becomes law. Please contact by phone or email your State Assembly Member immediately. Tell him or her to vote 'No' on SB 360. You may also make your voice heard through the Action Alert process of the Catholic Legislative Network by going to the parish website olg-church.org and clicking on the "News" Quick Link on the left side of the homepage.

Our Lady full of Grace, pray for us!

But since you excel in everything—in faith, in speech, in knowledge, in complete earnestness and in the love we have kindled in you—see that you also excel in this grace of giving.

2 Corinthians 8:7

tive and significant occasions. The God Jesus knew—and revealed to us in his self-offering—stood completely within our history and became subject to it in all of its raw potential for horror in order to rescue us from its brutal consequences. But to be fully human Jesus had to leave this world, because that is what all of us must do at some hour yet unknown to us. So how do we hold onto his revelation of God's enduring involvement and investment in our lives?

It is this third angle of the mystery that engulfs us here, the abiding Spirit of God that "remains" until the end of time. Sometimes we ignore the Holy Spirit because the Spirit seems to have no back story. The Most High was first revealed as the God "of" somebody: Abraham, Jacob, Naomi, David. We meet God through the divine dealings with these folks. Later, we came to know God as Jesus did—in fact, as Jesus himself presented God's compassion and authority. But where do we look to learn about the Holy Spirit who came to stay? We need go no further than the life of the church, from the Acts of the Apostles to the activity of Christians today.

The Spirit and the church

If we have trouble telling the story of the Holy Spirit, it's not for lack of material. This is a story we need to make more familiar to our communities. Do we "preach" the Spirit, or are we uncomfortable or uncertain about the whereabouts of this presence? Many contemporary Christians are actually Binarians rather than Trinitarians. We have encountered God in two historical ways, and that's enough for us. Having God in the neighborhood is one thing; having God at the center of our lives is something else again. The indwelling Spirit and the ensuing expression of grace through our lives is our most dynamic encounter with the Trinity, and we can't afford to miss it.
