FRIDAYS of LENT | Mar 15, 22, 29, Apr 5, 12

Days of abstinence

Fish Dinners in the Parish Center | 5:00–7:00 pm

Sponsored by the Knights of Columbus.

Stations of the Cross | 7:00 pm

Welcome to OUR LADY of GRACE!

Welcome to all who are joining us for the celebration of the Eucharist. There are many ways and parish organizations to participate in our life in Christ. See the directory on page 7.

We invite all who attend OLG to become registered members of our parish. Registration forms are available on the table in the main entry of the church or the parish office. Registration allows us to communicate and effectively provide for your needs. It is necessary for baptism, marriage, and godparent or sponsor certification.

Mindfulness of Others—Please silence all devices and refrain from using them during the liturgy. The parish has a Children's Chapel located in the northwest corner of the church. Parents with restless children are welcome to make use of this chapel. We ask that this chapel, like the church itself, remain free of food and drink.

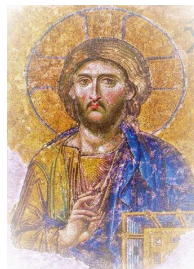

Allergies—The first morning Mass of the Sunday or feast day will always be incense-free.

REMINDER: Flu Season Precautions
The parish is currently practicing safety precautions during the flu season.

Our traditional means of sharing the Sign of Peace and the Blood of Christ will return about mid-April.

Invitation to the RCIA

Our Lady of Grace Parish welcomes all who seek to enrich their faith life and explore the possibility of becoming a Catholic Christian. Our community shares and celebrates this journey with them through a process called "The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults." If you are curious about what Catholics believe and may be interested in learning more about joining the Catholic faith—or perhaps you are an adult Catholic looking to be fully initiated—you are cordially invited to enter the RCIA process and experience a new and enriched meaning to your life through renewed faith and love. For more information, please contact Deacon John Sawaya at jsawaya@olg-church.org or (858) 869-5079.

GUEST COLUMNIST

ALICE CAMILLE

People of the Story

One of the things we stand to lose in a society dedicated to rugged individualism is a sense of our connectedness. No person may be an island, but many of us live as if we are. A recent statistic notes that nearly one-third of all Americans live in a household of one. Only in America would this be possible, and surely only here would this be seen in any way advantageous. Those of us who don't live alone most likely reside in a clearly defined family unit. The idea of who "belongs" to us is hardly a fluid or flexible identity under these terms. In fact, as we age in this society, the sense of belonging tends to collapse ever more narrowly. Even the most connected person may well be alone before the end.

A high-walled idea of who belongs affects not only the nature of family but also our sense of neighborhood, community, and country. As the survivalist instinct peels us off in discreet and defensive units, social programs crumble and the notion of the "common good" is met with public derision. Individualists resist the suggestion that we are in any way responsible for one another as a result of our common humanity. This is one underlying reason why "respect for life" is such a hard sell. How can we drum up a warm identification with preborn children, incarcerated criminals, or the infirm languishing in institutions when we don't feel a sense of connection to the people who live and work and share the space around us?

How much less can we feel any responsibility for the stranger, the foreigner, the fate of peoples on the far side of the globe? Modern people may have developed a global consciousness—but our hearts are smaller than ever.

Moses and nation-building

It has been argued that, before the time of Moses, there was no such thing as Israel. Yes, Abraham had fathered the nation and his grandson Jacob gave it a name. But the people who went down into Egypt were not the same ones who came out of it years later. The circumstance of slavery had robbed them of a sense of selfhood. Worse, they had lost the thread of the story that had made them unique. They had once been the people loyal to Abraham's God. But they had since become a people who pledged their allegiance to the fleshpots of their masters in Egypt. Such a people would find it hard to place their confidence in a leader with no land, army, or wealth to show them. And they would find it even more difficult to believe in themselves.

So Moses wisely began the task of nation-building by forming the people first of all into a community with a common story. This was not simply a story about long-ago ancestors like Abraham the "wandering Aramean" or Jacob and his progeny who went down into Egypt during a time of famine. Moses taught the people to tell the story in a kind of perpetual present-tense. This story was their story, and it had happened to them personally. The Jewish community still tells the stories of Passover in this direct and immediate way. People who have struggled and suffered learn how a shared story binds one generation to another more strongly than material possessions. As the rabbis say: "It's not so much that Jews have kept the Sabbath, as that the Sabbath has kept the Jews."

Our Lenten story

The stories of scripture are meant to have this sense of immediacy about them for those who claim them. Do we think about salvation history as our history and biblical folk as our kin? Some of us might find it a strange idea that you and I are "biblical people" ourselves and that the journey God's people have taken so far is the same journey we are embarked upon in faith. If the Bible has become a dead word to us, it's because we have relegated these stories to ancient times and foreign lands. If the body of Christ is something we view as crucified, dead, and buried behind a stone 2,000 years ago, it is no wonder we do not perceive Christ alive

Marriage Help!

Retrouvaille offers hope: hope that it is not too late, hope of a different and better marriage. Retrouvaille helps couples to show each other mercy through the opportunities it provides to listen, to forgive, to be reconciled and to move into their futures believing that God loves them and with His help and their efforts, their marriages can be healed and restored. For more information about the upcoming Retrouvaille weekend of April 5-7, call (951) 259-9474 or visit HelpOurMarriage.org.

White Mass Planned

A White Mass will be celebrated on Sat, Apr 6 at 10:30 am at Sacred Heart Parish, 655 C Ave, Coronado, 92118. The Mass, followed by a reception, will honor doctors, nurses, medical technicians, and all who provide compassionate care and service and concern for human life. Send your RSVP by Apr 1 to Irene Santiesteban at isantiesteban@sdcatholic.org. For more info, call (858) 490-8324. Healthcare workers from all faiths are welcome.

Wisdom & Works of Mercy Retreat

With humor and ease, Fr. Michael Gaitley, MIC, deftly unlocks the 'one thing,' the key to the Church's wisdom, and the greatest mystery of the Catholic faith: the Most Holy Trinity. Far from being an academic read, The 'One Thing' is Three makes deep theology accessible and relevant to everyday Catholics.

Mondays starting Mar 11 for 10 weeks. Two sessions: 9:15 to 10:45 am or 7:00 to 8:30 pm. There is no charge for the retreat but participants need to order a "Wisdom & Works of Mercy Participant Packet" (with "The 'One Thing' is Three" book) by phone at (866) 767-3155 or online at <https://bit.ly/2DU2Mkv> for $39.95. To register, contact Ken Discenza, (619) 464-0792 or sitedesign@sda-pe.com.

Please pray for our Catechumens and Candidates

Father God, bless those who are moving forward into the fullness of faith in You and full communion in the life of our Catholic Family. Protect them on their journey. Reveal to them the love of Your Son Jesus. Empower them with the gifts of Your Holy Spirit.

I offer this sacrifice of prayer for them, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

*Make a friend, be a friend,
 bring a friend to Christ!*

today in the world—not to mention, in ourselves.

God's living word, Saint Paul tells us, has an immediacy about it that compels us. We can profess it and we can contain it—but only when we do both will its dynamic life be realized. It is the nature of a word to be spoken; and it is the nature of a divine word to be enfleshed and enacted.

We see the use and misuse of God's word in the temptation story according to Luke. Jesus and the devil trade scripture verses, but only Jesus embodies what he says. The devil speaks the words but neither believes nor commits to them. Jesus, however, is the Word he speaks, and there is no cleft between the divine story and his.

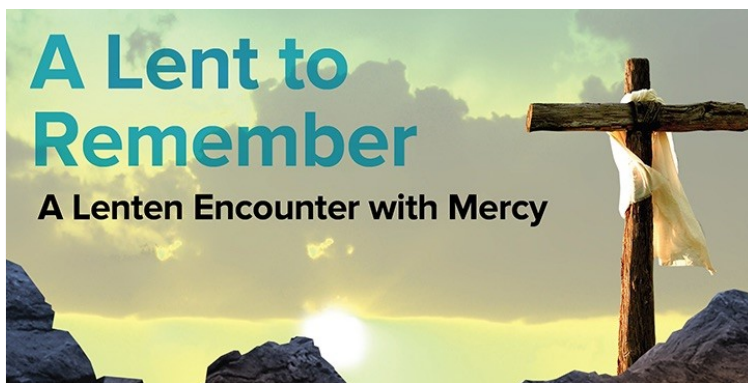

If even the devil can mouth scripture for his own purposes, what power do these stories contain? Without our owning and incarnating them as our story, none at all. But when we embrace and en flesh them, they can unleash the power through which the worlds were made.

A Lenten invitation

New Year's resolutions get stale in a week or two, but for many Catholics, Lent is the new year of the soul and a chance to conscientiously amend our lives. One way we can approach this season is with a renewed commitment to listening to the word of God as a fresh and living word being spoken today for our benefit. We can dedicate ourselves to closing the cleft between "that old story" and the one we are living each moment so intimately. It is the devil's work, we might say, to tempt us to regard God's word as a dead word, a mere pawn in the game of religion, a pious platitude to be mouthed for the benefit of children. But if we begin to hear God's word in the present tense, we may come to know why bread alone cannot give us life.
