Welcome to OUR LADY of GRACE!

Welcome to all who are joining us for the celebration of the Eucharist. There are many ways and parish organizations to participate in our life in Christ. See the directory on page 7.

We invite all who attend OLG to become registered members of our parish. Registration forms are available on the table in the main entry of the church or the parish office. Registration allows us to communicate and effectively provide for your needs. It is necessary for baptism, marriage, and godparent or sponsor certification.

Mindfulness of Others—Please silence all devices and refrain from using them during the liturgy. The parish has a Children's Chapel located in the northwest corner of the church. Parents with restless children are welcome to make use of this chapel at any time during Mass should it be necessary. We ask that this chapel, like the church itself, remain free of food and drink.

Allergies—The first morning Mass of the Sunday or holy day will always be incense-free. The Sunday 11:00 am Mass will always include the use of incense.

FOOD AND FELLOWSHIP IN THE PARISH CENTER

All are welcome after morning Masses.

- Mar 1 Waffle Sunday
Sponsored by the Events Committee
A delicious menu featuring waffles and fruit will be served.

"Go to your confessor; open your heart to him; display to him all the recesses of your soul; take the advice that he will give you with the utmost humility and simplicity. For God, who has an infinite love for obedience, frequently renders profitable the counsels we take from others, but especially from those who are the guides of our souls." --St. Francis de Sales

Our Lady of Grace Parish welcomes all who seek to enrich their faith life and explore the possibility of becoming a Catholic Christian. Our community shares and celebrates this journey with them through a process called "The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults." If you are curious about what Catholics believe and may be interested in learning more about joining the Catholic faith—or perhaps you are an adult Catholic looking to be fully initiated—you are cordially invited to enter the R.C.I.A. process and experience a new and enriched meaning to your life through renewed faith and love. Please contact Deacon John Sawaya at (858) 869-5079 or use the "Contact us" link on the parish webpage.

Conversations with the Devil

When we read about them in Holy Writ, conversations with the devil seem eerie, dramatic, and singular. Consider Eve, standing naked at the tree, while the serpent insinuates itself around her heart with whispered words of unimagined greatness. Artists have found the moment irresistibly illustrative of Every-person's vulnerable ignorance, not to mention the soothingly sibilant persuasiveness of our tempter.

The next appearance of the devil is in the court of God, no less, as the fate of God's good servant Job is bandied about. Here the Satan has shed his scales and looks more like a lawyer than a snake. It may surprise us how casually the Almighty exchanges words with humanity's persecutor; God speaks to Abraham and Moses with as much ease. In this conversation, it would appear that Job's experience of unparalleled suffering is of less interest to God than the results of the wager between the divine and the diabolical. We might like God to show more discrimination, perhaps, in the celestial social life. Maybe a little knowledge is a dangerous thing, and we're better off not knowing too much of the ways of heaven.

Quite a good while later, Jesus has his own encounter with the Evil One. Here, the devil sounds more obviously like the enemy he is, taunting Jesus about his true identity, his power, his untested possibilities. In this meeting, the devil seems more nakedly untrustworthy, even as he quotes scripture like a reverend. Perhaps it is in this final manifestation, as desert parson, that we have the most reason to fear him.

The devil loves to talk

We've all had conversations with the devil, too, though they don't always seem as spectacular as the ones in the Bible. Does he come to us when we are naked, or with food in hand? Sure. If it worked once, it could work again, and sex and gluttony are by now pretty routine temptations. So are the ones that the devil presents to Jesus. The first one is a clever appeal to pride: If you are who you say you are, make a miracle! When Jesus resists that one easily, the devil tries something more complicated: If your Father is who you say he is, then make him come to your aid! Jesus doesn't bite. Finally, the devil throws a last desperate pitch: I am a great one in my own right: worship me and gain the world! Jesus, with great simplicity, tells him to go to hell.

Operating on a much lower level of resistance, I personally would often barter my soul for a pint of Häagen-Dazs Swiss Almond Vanilla. I know the result is as pure, sweet, and visceral a form of evil as there is. Super-fatted ice cream is nobody's friend, and eating a whole pint in one sitting (my preferred method) is just raising the white flag of surrender to obesity, high cholesterol, and Type 2 diabetes. It defies the basic premise of human stewardship: that we are to be guardians of the lives in our care, starting with our own. Clearly, the devil can save his more sophisticated artillery for the holy souls. Coming after me with food in hand isn't even a challenge.

The last temptation

Most of us, it might be said, have little to fear from the first two temptations the devil offers to Jesus. We rely very little on our personal authority for the manufacture of miracles, and we don't count on God to bail us out either, to be honest. But the final temptation does contain the seed of our undoing. As high-strung as it might have sounded to the ears of Jesus, this last-ditch appeal to idolatry, it is actually the most intriguing to you and me. I'll give you the world! We like the world, very much. We could well be tempted to close our ears to the first half of the deal—throw yourself down and worship me—if we could be assured of having all that shiny new stuff that only the world can give.

And it's because we each have our resistance threshold (from which we embark into a world of hurt known as sin) that we also meet back here, at about this time every year, to engage in the annual practice of Lent. I say practice rather than season, because Lent is a dynamic item on the church calendar. Liturgically speaking, Lent is a verb, and a communal one: We "lent" together as Catholics. That is, we fast, observe abstinence, give alms, examine our consciences, attend services of recollection, penitence, and reconciliation, and give our discipleship a good shaking out all around. Maybe we make a commitment to attend daily Mass or to increase our time at prayer or to take on spiritual reading. All that we do is intended to wake us up to the fact that, all year long, we are holding this casual, amiable conversation, perhaps over our morning coffee or just after dinner as we settle into a comfortable chair for the evening, with a fellow who means us no good. All of our Lenten practices are for the purposes of unmasking this dialogue so that we can hear it for what it is and back away as from a poisonous serpent.

Taking the Lenten journey

I hope you're all wearing comfortable shoes, because it's a long walk between here and Jerusalem, between Ash Wednesday and the Easter Vigil. Like Jesus did, we take this journey with friends, the community of believers. Like Jesus, we also take this journey with the devil lurking not far behind, biding his time. If the devil was gracious enough to appear in costume, with pitchfork and pointy tail, we could dismiss him at once and no harm done. But the Evil One has a lot more social grace than that. He knows how to meet us where we are, and to speak our language, and to make a good case for seeing things in a practical, reasonable light. That one, he's a talker, smooth enough to chat with God when the occasion arises, and bold enough to challenge even the divine Son. But the Satan never cared much for a crowd. If we travel together on this Lenten path, that fellow won't have much chance for those one-on-ones for which he is famous. Or should we say infamous?
