Welcome to OUR LADY of GRACE!

Welcome to all who are joining us for the celebration of the Eucharist. There are many ways and parish organizations to participate in our life in Christ. See the directory on page 7.

We invite all who attend OLG to become registered members of our parish. Registration forms are available on the table in the main entry of the church or the parish office. Registration allows us to communicate and effectively provide for your needs. It is necessary for baptism, marriage, and godparent or sponsor certification.

Mindfulness of Others—Please silence all devices and refrain from using them during the liturgy. The parish has a Children's Chapel located in the northwest corner of the church. Parents with restless children are welcome to make use of this chapel. We ask that this chapel, like the church itself, remain free of food and drink.

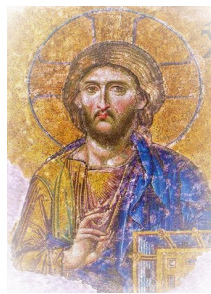

Allergies—The first morning Mass of the Sunday or feast day will always be incense-free.

REMINDER: Flu Season Precautions
The parish is currently practicing safety precautions during the flu season.

Our traditional means of sharing the Sign of Peace and the Blood of Christ will return about mid-April.

Invitation to the RCIA

Our Lady of Grace Parish welcomes all who seek to enrich their faith life and explore the possibility of becoming a Catholic Christian. Our community shares and celebrates this journey with them through a process called "The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults." If you are curious about what Catholics believe and may be interested in learning more about joining the Catholic faith—or perhaps you are an adult Catholic looking to be fully initiated—you are cordially invited to enter the RCIA process and experience a new and enriched meaning to your life through renewed faith and love. For more info, please contact Deacon John Sawaya at jsawaya@olg-church.org or (858) 869-5079.

Learning God's Name

How many names do you have? Think of all the ways people get your attention. A man named John Sims may be Jack to his friends, and in certain formal situations, Mr. Sims. But more important, he may be Daddy to someone and Honey to someone else. Maybe he's even the boss, the villain, or the hero in someone's eyes. All of these names tell us who this man is and more about the network of his relationships to others.

Unless you're a celebrity, most of us have more than one name by which we are known. We have many relationships and roles through which we present ourselves to others. Each of these names identifies us, and yet there may be one we use to refer to ourselves, the one that speaks to us of who we are most intimately, the one we only share with the closest people in our lives. In some cultures, people are given two names at birth: one for public use and a private one that is never shared because its power to identify and make claim on a person is too strong. Certainly to give our name to another person is to open a door and admit entrance to someone who is no longer a stranger.

Divinity invites us in

Our Father who art in heaven. That's the first name Christians learned for the God we worship. And it's an especially good one in that it also tells us who we are (God's children) and where God might be found (heaven). When Jesus taught his disciples to pray to God like this, he gave us entrée to both a relationship and a residence.

But before we received this name for God, earlier in our story God shared another name with the people called into special relationship with the divine. Before the time of Moses, divinity was known according to certain activities (creation or destruction), location (God of the mountain), or relationships (God of Abraham). But when Moses encounters the divine, God offers him a privileged name to use, one that seems more personal than any of these others: "I AM."

This name identifies God apart from doing or relating and does not fix God in space. This liberating name seems to describe God "at rest," as God was on the seventh day, and not in any of the roles God plays or might assume. God exists, it tells us; God has being or is being in an eternal sense. It is the nature of God to be, and God is the source and sustenance of everything that has being. If we want to know who God is apart from how God relates to the world and to us, "I AM" is God's own self-expression.

Learning our true name

Because Jesus taught us that God is our Father, it is fair to say that we can also know our true selves apart from the roles we play, the things we do, and the place in which we find ourselves. "At rest" in our interior selves and without accomplishing a blessed thing, we are. And the truth about us can be found in our "being" more than in all the outward activity of our lives.

Or as Paul once put it, no matter what we accomplish, if at the heart of ourselves we don't have love, we have nothing. What we do is clearly not as significant as who we are. This understanding of our humanity gives dignity to people at every stage of life and productivity, to children and the elderly, to those of every ability, to the unborn and the infirm. Everything we are and can be depends on what lies at the core of us when we do nothing at all. This is the truth that every mystic and contemplative knows: When we are still, we know who God is and who we are in the divine image. If we are never still, never silent, never alone, it will be impossible to ever know ourselves, much less the God we serve.

Moving outward

One of the reasons many of us are reluctant to be known complete-

Responding to GOD'S Grace

But since you excel in everything—in faith, in speech, in knowledge, in complete earnestness and in the love we have kindled in you—see that you also excel in this grace of giving.

Challenging students to think critically, problem solve, and soar is our focus.

Keeping them safe is our priority.

Educating their minds, hearts and spirits is our mission.

Our Lady of Grace School enjoys an outstanding 60-year reputation of graduating young leaders and citizens of faith. With the integration of standards-based instruction, progressive technology, and a curriculum which incorporates our faith-based mission, we create a nurturing Growth Mindset learning environment for our students. Enriching minds from ages 5 to 14 requires a continual blend of perspectives and integration of many subjects. In addition to the core curriculum, we are proud to include STEM, fine arts, physical education, music, technology, and Spanish.

Continuing to celebrate the tradition of Catholic values in a vibrant parish and school community, families and school faculty/staff team together to underscore the three hallmarks of OLG School: Catholicity, academics, and community.

COME SPEND SOME TIME WITH US!

Schedule your visit by phone or e-mail, we look forward to meeting you!

ly is because we fear what might be discovered at the core of our being. There, we are sure, lurk our deepest faults and failures: anger and unforgiveness, greed and jealousy, prejudice and a sense of our own superiority. Seven deadly sins and more fill the swamp at the center of our hearts: Who would want to inspect those waters closely?

The Christian understanding of salvation begins with the acceptance of this swamp, however. The starting point of grace is to know that we are sinners and to repent our sinfulness. If not, we become like those around Jesus who pointed at the people of Galilee and Siloam and saw in their violent end some hidden flaw. Jesus insisted that human culpability is spread around pretty evenly. The only thing that separates us is that some of us repent of our sin, and others pretend it away. Repentance leads to conversion, but pretense of virtue only hardens us in our guilt.

The fruit of the future

Jesus tells the story of the fig tree that has produced no fruit in the past. The gardener asks for more time to cultivate the ground and give the tree better conditions for bearing fruit in the future. That future fruit may yet save the whole tree. But without the inward work of cultivation, no outward fruit may be expected.

This season of Lent is another chance for us to be still, find out what's at the core of us, and to take steps to create a new interior environment suitable for producing spiritual fruit. It is safe for us to be so honest. At rest within the heart of the God who is, we have nothing to fear, and everything to gain.
