Welcome to OUR LADY of GRACE!

Welcome to all who are joining us for the celebration of the Eucharist. There are many ways and parish organizations to participate in our life in Christ. See the directory on page 7.

We invite all who attend OLG to become registered members of our parish. Registration forms are available on the table in the main entry of the church or the parish office. Registration allows us to communicate and effectively provide for your needs. It is necessary for baptism, marriage, and godparent or sponsor certification.

Mindfulness of Others—Please silence all devices and refrain from using them during the liturgy. The parish has a Children's Chapel located in the northwest corner of the church. Parents with restless children are welcome to make use of this chapel. We ask that this chapel, like the church itself, remain free of food and drink.

Allergies—The first morning Mass of the Sunday or feast day will always be incense-free.

REMINDER: Flu Season Precautions
The parish is currently practicing safety precautions during the flu season.

Our traditional means of sharing the Sign of Peace and the Blood of Christ will return about mid-April.

Invitation to the RCIA

Our Lady of Grace Parish welcomes all who seek to enrich their faith life and explore the possibility of becoming a Catholic Christian. Our community shares and celebrates this journey with them through a process called "The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults." If you are curious about what Catholics believe and may be interested in learning more about joining the Catholic faith—or perhaps you are an adult Catholic looking to be fully initiated—you are cordially invited to enter the RCIA process and experience a new and enriched meaning to your life through renewed faith and love. For more info, please contact Deacon John Sawaya at jsawaya@olg-church.org or (858) 869-5079.

A Season for Celebration

As a liturgical season, Lent has had a bad rap as a time for glumness. We aren't even allowed to say the word "alleluia" because it's too happy! Maybe it's the penitential purple that casts a shadow on these weeks or the knowledge that we are moving ever closer to Passion Week and the cross. It's a time for fasting, sacrifice, and challenging ourselves with the task of conversion. It is also the premiere season for reconciliation. Lent is, from every point of view, hard work.

And yet the Sacramentary calls Lent "this joyful season," and we set aside this Sunday, Laetare Sunday, for a certain deliberate buoyancy even in a time earmarked for buttoned-down spiritual discipline. Even without the alleluias, we find ways to rejoice! Because when it's time to celebrate, even the color of the season can't stop us. (I'm sure some folks made exceptions for that Irish saint earlier this month, for instance.)

Timing is everything

Knowing when a celebration is in order is as crucial as the celebration itself. When the Israelites led by Joshua got as far as Jericho, it was time for the Passover feast. But they were commemorating more than the 40th anniversary of their deliverance from Egyptian slavery that year. Israel was also acknowledging that they had made it through the desert wilderness, past the generation caught in the old ways at last and preparing to settle in the land of Canaan.

This was the day the manna ceased, which might seem an odd way to begin a celebration. The loss of the free lunch surely rattled the complacency and security of more than a few Israelites. But the manna was a gift from God to sustain a dependent people. Once they had attained the promised land, they no longer needed a divine handout. It was time for them to become self-reliant and to enjoy the harvest of the land they would work for themselves. We can think of the conclusion of the manna as a kind of ancient Labor Day in which a liberated people finally embraced what it means to be free and in charge of their own fate. Without independence, as every young person knows and most of us still remember, liberty remains only an illusion.

"Now we must celebrate and rejoice"

Another story of independence started out rather badly. One of two brothers approached his father for his share of the inheritance and set out on his own. A young man freshly removed from his father's house with lots of money burning a hole in his pocket sounds like disaster waiting to strike. And it was: Before long this young person was broke and humiliated. His lack of judgment was no surprise, because here was a fellow who couldn't wait for his father's death to receive his inheritance! Here was a fellow so full of chutzpah and with no sense of appropriate timing that he went out to celebrate for the sake of celebrating. The party wound down when the money was gone, and he found himself predictably friendless.

We can certainly sympathize with the older brother, who considered the return of his worthless kin an occasion for offense. According to any worldly standard you can measure by—just deserts, the work ethic, simple evolution—this young fellow has squandered his place in the gene pool and deserves whatever hard times he gets. But the father doesn't use a worldly standard to measure his son. He loves him. He worried about him, looked for his return, and saw in the very fact of his survival a reason to rejoice.

Another way of looking at this story is to think about freedom, God's and ours. Our free will gives us the choice to take the high road or the low road, for grace or for sin. The young man in the story chooses the low road, and his father freely chooses to forgive him, carte blanche, for everything. The only person in the story who doesn't exercise his freedom is the older brother. He has bound himself to his brother's sins. A free person can show compassion, but a slave can only serve his problem solve, and soar is our focus.

Keeping them safe is our priority.

Educating their minds, hearts and spirits is our mission.

Our Lady of Grace School enjoys an outstanding 60-year reputation of graduating young leaders and citizens of faith. With the integration of standards-based instruction, progressive technology, and a curriculum which incorporates our faith-based mission, we create a nurturing Growth Mindset learning environment for our students. Enriching minds from ages 5 to 14 requires a continual blend of perspectives and integration of many subjects. In addition to the core curriculum, we are proud to include STEM, fine arts, physical education, music, technology, and Spanish.

Continuing to celebrate the tradition of Catholic values in a vibrant parish and school community, families and school faculty/staff team together to underscore the three hallmarks of OLG School: Catholicity, academics, and community.

master. This older son is mastered by the spirits of anger, self-righteousness, and a rigid sense of justice. It's particularly telling that the older brother still lives at home, even after the younger son had set out on his own. The older brother, evidently, has not embraced his independence and does not want the responsibility of human freedom. He still gets his daily manna and prefers it that way.

Only a free people can celebrate. The older brother can't even come into the house or in contact with the spirit of celebration. But celebration is not an option in the life of faith. When the lost turns up found, no matter how deliberately lost or in what condition found, God calls such a day a holiday.

Feasting in our fasting

This is why Lent is a 40-day celebration, despite the days when we don't eat meat or even much else. This season of reconciliation is one long party in God's eyes. Folks who have been out of touch with the church or any kind of vital prayer life have crept closer, drawn by the public sign of our ashes and the natural signs of the budding spring around us. Those who would be new members are spending these weeks making final preparations to join us in full communion at Easter. All of us, no matter how active we may be in attendance, have been invited to move a little deeper into our faith commitment and to examine what holds us back from the work of love. Lent might seem a little purgative from our point of view, but celestially speaking, it's a hootenanny. The more we take part in the spirit of reconciling our lives with the person we were born to be, the more there is to celebrate.
