New links are added regularly so check often!

Mother's Day Mass Cards

A special Triduum of Masses will be celebrated at OLG on May 14-16 for mothers, living and deceased. Mass cards are available on the publications table in the main entry of the church. Completed envelopes may be returned to the parish by way of the US Mail or the black "drop box" located to the right of the front door to the parish office.

Welcome to OUR LADY of GRACE!

Welcome to all who are joining us for the celebration of the Eucharist. There are many ways and parish organizations to participate in our life in Christ. See the directory on page 7.

We invite all who attend OLG to become registered members of our parish. Registration forms are available on the table in the main entry of the church or the parish office. Registration allows us to communicate and effectively provide for your needs. It is necessary for baptism, marriage, and godparent or sponsor certification.

Mindfulness of Others—Please silence all devices and refrain from using them during the liturgy. The parish has a Children's Chapel located in the northwest corner of the church. Parents with restless children are welcome to make use of this chapel at any time during Mass should it be necessary. We ask that this chapel, like the church itself, remain free of food and drink.

Allergies—The first morning Mass of the Sunday or holy day will always be incense-free. The Sunday 11:00 am Mass will always include the use of incense.

Invitation to the R.C.I.A.

Our Lady of Grace Parish welcomes all who seek to enrich their faith life and explore the possibility of becoming a Catholic Christian. Our community shares and celebrates this journey with them through a process called "The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults." If you are curious about what Catholics believe and may be interested in learning more about joining the Catholic faith—or perhaps you are an adult Catholic looking to be fully initiated—you are cordially invited to enter the R.C.I.A. process and experience a new and enriched meaning to your life through renewed faith and love. Please contact Deacon John Sawaya at (858) 869-5079 or use the "Contact us" link on the parish webpage.

GUEST COLUMNIST

ALICE CAMILLE

Gospel for Control Freaks

I come from a long line of Type A personalities. Some of them were tyrants, unable to rein in the need to dominate and orchestrate every aspect of their lives—and their families' lives. Others in my genetic circle took personal development to heart and got to work on letting go and letting God, which is the primary task of faith. Naturally, I like to think of myself as being in the latter category as an adult who has taken responsibility for a personality quirk that does not always serve me (or the folks around me!) very well. Whenever I'm badly in need of a day off, however, my anxiety about every last detail tends to rise to a noticeable pitch.

Working in and around churches for the past 25 years, I've noticed that control freaks are either attracted to the ministry or bred in the midst of it. Leadership is a wonderful quality of which the church could surely use more, but authoritarian oppression is not the same as leadership. How many liturgy czars, parish council Sanhedrin, music monarchs, canon law cops, and DRE dictators do we need in our communities? And does this kind of ministry reflect the servant leadership of Jesus?

The Twelve make room for the Seven

Administrators, we have to acknowledge, are inescapable necessities in a church where more than "two or three are gathered."

Before Pentecost, the 12 apostles may have been more than enough, or even too many, to facilitate whatever true believers existed after the events of Holy Week and Easter. But before long it is evident that more hands are required in order for the community to be properly served. So the Twelve appoint the Seven—or so Luke would have us believe.

Scholars suspect that the narrative of the appointment of the Seven by the Twelve is one more instance of Luke tidying up the appearance of the early church to make it camera-ready for the history books. The Lucan tendency to harmonize and subordinate conflicting factions gives the early church that rosy glow of perfection we associate with a Christianity we cannot seem to recapture. It is just as likely that the seven leaders of the Greek-speaking community emerged naturally and angrily from among the Hellenists, tired of seeing their widows neglected and their concerns ignored by the predominantly Hebrew-speaking assembly—much the way Latino or African American Catholics may feel unaddressed in some parishes today. Sooner or later the constituency represented by the Seven had to be acknowledged by the Twelve, or lost altogether. An agreement to share leadership was reached, but probably not according to the neat delineation of roles as "apostle and preacher" and "deacon and server at table" suggests. After all, Stephen was put to death precisely for preaching, and fellow deacon Philip went on to become the evangelist to Samaria. Meanwhile, who's minding the tables?

If Luke is a bit of a control freak when it comes to the history, he had good intentions. The unity of the church was a precious commodity, and keeping the community together across generations, cultures, languages, and factions would remain a daunting challenge.

A map would help

Presuming that John was writing after Luke, we see that control issues continued to make a lot of early believers anxious. John tells the story of Thomas and Philip (the apostle, not the deacon by the same name) at the last supper, struggling to get as many last-minute instructions as possible before Jesus' suddenly announced departure. Jesus assures his friends that everything is under control (despite what may seem like total disruption and dissolution in the next few hours). He is going on ahead to prepare a place for them. They will know how to find him. All they have to do is what they have always done: put their faith in him.

Thomas is the first to object. Obviously, faith in Jesus is not a done deal as far as he's concerned. He would prefer to have this plan on paper: a map, a

A Mother's Love A Prayer of Our Lady of Fatima

We praise you, Lord, and bless you, for in a time of horrific war and pandemic plague, you sent us your mother, Our Lady of Fatima.

We sing praises to you, for even in times of sorrow and fear. The Earth is still touched by one such as she. And we are reminded, knowing that whatever war visits itself upon us, whatever deprivations, whatever want, whatever illness, whatever calamity endured by humankind that may cause us to look to the sky and despair, that your children do not toil in this world apart from your grace, that our prayers are not unheard and we do not go forth without a mother's love.

Keep us devoted to you, O Lord, devoted in our prayer, our words and our acts, that all souls in this world may know your compassion, peace and mercy, that all souls who have departed this world may find salvation.

Lucia, Jacinta and Francisco, pray for us.
Our Lady of Fatima, pray for us.

Amen.

street address, and a timetable for all this coming and going, perhaps. Something more definite than a "place" and "in a little while" would be nice.

Jesus offers himself as the Way. We can see Thomas making a face at this. He has always had a problem with the mysticism thing.

Next, Philip betrays an even larger hole in his comprehension. Never mind "where" and "when" all this will take place: How about introducing us to "who"—the big Who—we are supposed to be trusting here?

It's Jesus' turn to make a face. He offers himself as the Who. It's significant that no one else raises a question after this. Sometimes, especially in John's gospel, the more Jesus talks, the less anyone understands.

Laying the stones

Human experience is wrapped in mystery. We've got unanswered questions at either end of life, and the part in between is not exactly a simple equation either. Those who feel compelled to dominate the details will find life to be a frustrating and unsatisfying proposition from start to finish. We are on a journey toward somewhere, and we'll get there sooner or later. Those are not the most precise directions one could have, but they are, for the person of faith, enough.

Because the one thing we are sure of is the One we are following. If we follow his way, we cannot be lost. If we trust in his plan, the unpredictability of worldly variables will not shake us. We are stones being built into a design we cannot see from our end of the quarry. The weight of our own destinies may be burdensome to us, but not to the builder who knows precisely how to shape and place us. In his hands, we will assume the perfect contour for our position in the structure, and where we wind up could not be more right. Letting go, even for a humble stone, requires confidence in the force of gravity. How much kinder, wiser, and more loving is the force that catches us!

A Little Humor: Bought vs. Homemade

Six year old Annie returns home from school and says that today she had her first family planning lesson at school. Her mother, very interested, asks: "Oh... How did it go?"

"I nearly died of shame!" she answers. "Sam from down the street says the stork brings babies. Sally next door said you can buy babies at the orphanage. Pete in my class says you can buy babies at the hospital."

Her mother answers laughingly, "But that's no reason to be ashamed."

"No... But I can't tell them that we were so poor that you and daddy had to make me yourselves!"

"Dear mothers: thank you!
Thank you for what you are in your family and for what you give to the Church and the world."

MAKING FRIENDS AND LOSING FEWER GOLFBALLS

Has there been anything positive about the stay-at-home experience?

1. I haven't lost any golf balls in a month.
2. We have cleaned the leftovers out of the refrigerator.
3. We have not acquired any new restaurant doggie bags.
4. I am all caught up on yard work.
5. Our TV recording library was 98% full, and now it is down to 90% full.
6. Our neighborhood has become more neighborly. Weather permitting, we periodically have happy hour in a neighbor's driveway. We each bring our own chair and beverage. I also bring a tape measure to maintain social distancing.
7. Our gas and auto maintenance expenses have plummeted.
8. Our political choices are more obvious.
9. Many other things are more obvious. Andrew Cuomo "coulda been a contenda," with apologies to Marlon Brando. Dr. Anthony Fauci deserves a lifetime appointment.

10. Our cat has not reprimanded us for leaving her.
11. The hummingbird feeders are all clean and full.
12. We have three gallons of lemonade in the refrigerator.
13. I have read the entire U.S. Constitution. The 10th Amendment says: "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people." I recommend everyone read the Constitution.
14. My repertoire of sparkling happy hour trivia small talk is vastly improved. My friends will be stunned. Did you know there are about 60 synonyms for the word "group"?
15. My sock drawer is sorted and organized. I seem to have mostly right-foot socks.
16. Did I mention "I haven't lost any golf balls"?
