Stop by for complimentary coffee and refreshments. Contributions not necessary but gratefully accepted. Proceeds benefit OLG School's Tuition Assistance Fund, the Gerard Family Endowment for Catholic Education.
- Oct 21 Coats for Kids Fundraiser
Sponsored by the Knights of Columbus, Francis Cabrini Council 8879
Complimentary coffee, donuts, and baked goods from Flour Power Cakery. Donations provide new coats for local children in need.
- Oct 28 Bread Sunday
Sponsored by the Catholic Women's Club
Enjoy freshly-baked breads: quinoa, Irish Soda, yeast and scones. Bagels and lox; coffee, juice and donuts also being served. For quick pick-up after Mass, use the pink pre-order forms available on the publications table in the main entrance of the church.

Welcome to OUR LADY of GRACE!

Welcome to all who are joining us for the celebration of the Eucharist. There are many ways and parish organizations to participate in our life in Christ. See the directory on page 7.

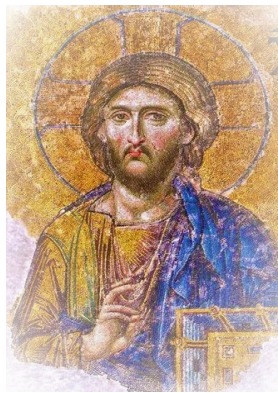

We invite all who attend OLG to become registered members of our parish. Registration forms are available on the table in the main entry of the church or the parish office. Registration allows us to communicate and effectively provide for your needs. It is necessary for baptism, marriage, and godparent or sponsor certification.

Mindfulness of Others—Please silence all devices and refrain from using them during the liturgy. The parish has a Children's Chapel located in the northwest corner of the church. Parents are welcome to make use of this chapel with restless children. We ask that this chapel, like the church itself, remain free of food and drink.

Allergies—The first morning Mass of the Sunday or feast day will always be incense-free.

Invitation to the RCIA

Our Lady of Grace Parish welcomes all who seek to enrich their faith life and explore the possibility of becoming a Catholic Christian. Our community shares and celebrates this journey with them through a process called "The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults." If you are curious about what Catholics believe and may be interested in learning more about joining the Catholic faith—or perhaps you are an adult Catholic looking to be fully initiated—you are cordially invited to enter the RCIA process this Fall and experience a new and enriched meaning to your life through renewed faith and love. For more information, please contact Deacon John Sawaya at (858) 869-5079.

GUEST COLUMNIST

ALICE CAMILLE

Camels need not apply

Is it a sin to be rich? We might well ask the question. So much of the gospel teaching seems to focus on the perils of acquiring wealth. The parable of Dives and Lazarus, as well as the man counting on his abundant storage in the barn, gives us a sense that the rich are damned, the poor blessed. After all, isn't that what it says in the Beatitudes: "Blessed are the poor, they get the Kingdom"? Jesus warns his disciples not to take a purse or extra cloak with them on the mission trails, and to accept whatever hospitality is offered, like beggars for the sake of the gospel. There is such a strong emphasis on the apparent virtue of poverty in these stories, it certainly sounds like owning stuff is a minor infraction, if not a major miscalculation. The widow with her surrendered mite is certainly more of a hero than the rich man who wants to inherit eternal life—on top of everything else he's already inherited, apparently. Acquiring wealth is obviously a really bad idea according to Jesus. After all, his stash was in heaven, and he walked around Israel without a pillow for his head at night.

I once heard a gentleman express the novel idea that Catholics were incapable of being professionally successful. "Why is that?" I asked.

"Because your religion is opposed to it. It's a sin for you to do well," he told me frankly. I thought long and hard about this. Was I at odds with the idea of doing well, or did I think I would be in spiritual jeopardy if I became successful?

The truth is, religion has often swung the other way entirely, interpreting success as a sign that God was blessing you. Strains of Christianity present among us today still consider material wealth the "fruits" that suggest God is behind you all the way. They read poverty as a clear indication of moral failure as well. Is God for or against wealth, or doesn't heaven care either way?

"I deemed riches nothing compared to wisdom"

For those who are unsure, the Catholic position in a nutshell is this: Poverty is not a virtue, nor is wealth inherently sinful. Success can obviously be measured in a lot of ways, but if it happens to include a nice fat paycheck, that's OK, too, as long as it is earned ethically. The real measure of our wealth, of course, is the treasure we've stored up in heaven, which makes whatever we have or don't have here ironically immaterial. The best kind of riches to bank on, according to scripture, is wisdom of the ways of God. If we've got that, our relative worth in dollars and cents won't impede our spiritual progress.

But here comes the rub: Without holy wisdom, money can well become the root of every evil. Because the plain truth is that possessions possess us. Recent reports on the empire of the Husseins reveal that both Saddam and his sons spent time regularly counting all their belongings to be sure none had been stolen. They even weighed their staff members routinely to see if they were gaining weight at their employer's expense! They may be at an extreme end of the spectrum, but the fact is, having stuff does obligate us in certain ways. When you have stuff, you have to maintain it: servicing the car, dry-cleaning the clothes, dusting the furniture. If you have investments, you have to mind your portfolio. Or as Franciscan Father Richard Rohr says, "The more you have, the more you have to protect."

Wealth proves to be a distraction, if not an obsession, which is why some have recently adopted the slogan of "downward mobility," simplifying their lives in order to have more time for the things they insist are their priorities. A lot of the saints led the way down this path, surrendering worldly wealth and position, even vanishing into cloisters to escape the bondage of possessions.

Passing through the needle's eye

The rich man who came to Jesus was obviously a good fellow. Jesus loved him, we are told, presumably because his yearning to do the right thing was so sincere. The man claims to have kept all the laws since he was young (except the one about humility, we may imagine). So Jesus invites him to embrace a real challenge: translate his wealth into alms, divest, and join the disciples. This suggestion floors the man, who sadly turns away. In the end, he realizes he loves his possessions more than God.

This is the heart of the matter: It's the love of money that's the root of evil, and how can we not love money? It claims our hearts because of what it can do: liberate us from want, provide us with comfort and opportunity, secure our futures, take care of those we love. Money does a lot of good things, and it's good for us to have. But the difference between having money and being had by it is thin ice, treacherous to the spirit.

The way to test our attraction to money is the same way we test our love for people: Do we clutch them jealously to us, to serve our own agenda, or are we free to surrender them to God's purposes? If we attempt to possess our spouse, our children, or our friends, they, too, become our wealth. And the needle's eye will shrink around us as tightly as if we dragged bags of gold bullion behind us.

Then who can be saved?

The bottom line is: It's not what we have, it's how we have it that matters in the doorway of the Kingdom. Can we let our wealth go when it is required of us—and by wealth, I mean our stuff, our advantage, the esteem others have for us, our relationships, our health, and even our lives? Is there anything we've got in our fists that's clutching us back so tightly that we are afraid to let it go? Following Jesus is a lifestyle that is only available to people who are truly free. If there's a prior claim on our hearts, we've still got some divesting to do.

Needed: A Few Good Men!

The Gaudete Choir (Sun, 11:00 am) is in need of male volunteers to share their time and voices. Of the twenty-one members on our choir roster, six are men and only two of the six are able to sing low. In order to have a balanced sound we need to balance the ratio of men to women. If you are a man who can speak in a strong and clear voice, I will be able to turn that into a strong, clear singing voice. We are all called to sing, some in the congregation, others in the choir. I encourage you to prayerfully discern if you are called to train your voice in the choir and serve the parish in song.

Paul Thomas May, Director of Liturgical Music.

Please pray for the repose of the soul of parishioner SALVATORE CAVALLARO who died on Oct 7.

His funeral Mass was celebrated here at OLG on Thurs, Oct 11.

May his soul and the souls of all the faithful departed, through the mercy of God, rest in peace. Amen.

"A Time to Listen" Meetings Set

Bishop McElroy has scheduled eight listening sessions to seek input from parishioners toward genuine Church reform, hear from those who are victims of clerical sexual abuse directly or who have experienced it in their families, and pray for God's grace to be our guide. All interested persons are welcome to attend these listening sessions.

The following listening sessions remain:

- Oct 17 Church of the Nativity, 7:00 pm
- Oct 18 St Gabriel, 7:00 pm
- Nov 5 USD, Joan B. Kroc Institute, 10:00 am

Food Pantry Collection Sunday

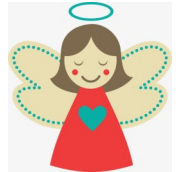

Food Collection Sunday, the third Sunday of the month, is next week! Please support our pantry by bringing non-perishable food to any of the entrances of the church before or after Mass. Monetary gifts are welcome and gratefully accepted. Gifts may be made by way of the special envelopes marked "Food Pantry" or the "Online Giving" link on the parish website, olg-church.org. Thank you!

Calling All Angels!

Thank you to those who have responded to our call for donors. Angel volunteers will be outside of the church next weekend at all Masses to distribute assignment envelopes. If you have already signed up to adopt a family, please stop by and pick up your envelope. Families still need to be adopted! If you can help by providing a holiday meal and/or gifts for an East County family or senior in need, please stop by the Holiday Angel table next week, call Lesley Bradley at (619) 878-0278, or go to the parish website and click on the "Upcoming Events" link. Thank you!
