Welcome to OUR LADY of GRACE!

Welcome to all who are joining us for the celebration of the Eucharist. There are many ways and parish organizations to participate in our life in Christ. See the directory on page 7.

We invite all who attend OLG to become registered members of our parish. Registration forms are available on the table in the main entry of the church or the parish office. Registration allows us to communicate and effectively provide for your needs. It is necessary for baptism, marriage, and godparent or sponsor certification.

Mindfulness of Others—Please silence all devices and refrain from using them during the liturgy. The parish has a Children's Chapel located in the northwest corner of the church. Parents are welcome to make use of this chapel with restless children. We ask that this chapel, like the church itself, remain free of food and drink.

Allergies—The first morning Mass of the Sunday or feast day will always be incense-free.

Invitation to the RCIA

Our Lady of Grace Parish welcomes all who seek to enrich their faith life and explore the possibility of becoming a Catholic Christian. Our community shares and celebrates this journey with them through a process called "The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults." If you are curious about what Catholics believe and may be interested in learning more about joining the Catholic faith—or perhaps you are an adult Catholic looking to be fully initiated—you are cordially invited to enter the RCIA process this Fall and experience a new and enriched meaning to your life through renewed faith and love. For more information, please contact Deacon John Sawaya at (858) 869-5079.

GUEST COLUMNIST

ALICE CAMILLE

Yours is the glory

There were more important things in high school, to be sure, than receiving an award at the annual achievement ceremonies. Things like clear skin or getting the attention of that attractive student in the third row or acing a critical exam to pull up a sagging cumulative average. But I can't say the award ceremony didn't matter, or that it didn't bother me tremendously when, three years running, my friend Patti got the English medal. English was my subject. Which is not to say Patti wasn't good; it's just that she was good at everything, and I was only good at this one subject. I wanted to be recognized for the one thing I did well. But that recognition seemed beyond hope.

So I wasn't even paying attention at the end of my senior year, the night before graduation, when the awards were being given out. I didn't hear my name when I was called to the stage—the girl next to me had to give me the elbow and persuade me it was me they wanted. All of a sudden, I got the medal I'd waited for all those years. Someone on the faculty had finally recognized my genius!

Of course, the thrill of that hour didn't last long. It's almost 30 years since that medal came into my life, and I hadn't even remembered getting it until last week when my mother mailed it to me, the product of some archeological dig in the attic. The once-gold finish is now quite green, the ribbon is faded, and you can barely read the engraving. Public honor is a nice thing, but it turns to rust pretty quickly.

The disciples James and John were young men; therefore, they can be forgiven for asking one of the dumbest questions in the Bible. They wanted the glory seats, no more and no less. They wanted to be Jesus' right- and left-hand guys in the Kingdom coming! We understand the impulse: Those chairs were not yet occupied, and generally it's the squeaky wheel that gets the grease. Besides, who was better qualified to sit there? Peter, maybe, but he could only take up one seat at best. Matthew was a traitor tax collector, Simon a political revolutionary, and Judas a bit of a spook, the way he clutched the common purse. Andrew was left over from the Baptist's ministry, and the rest were fairly unremarkable. So why not one or two strapping young fellows like themselves?

They may have gotten the assessment of their companions right, but they got Jesus all wrong. They also mistook the coming Kingdom entirely, confusing it with some run-of-the-mill governor's mansion. They imagined Jesus sitting on a throne, passing his goblet of wine to his favored and loyal allies. So when Jesus asks them, "Can you drink the cup that I drink, or be baptized with my Baptism?" their immediate and unreflective response comes in stereo: "We sure can!"

They sure can't

James and John are not ready to receive the Baptism that awaits Jesus in Jerusalem. They have no idea that the cup he will pass to them shortly will be filled with his blood. They are not prepared to embrace the hour of arrest and denunciation, scourging and humiliation, and the agony of the crucifixion to come. Nor are any of the other disciples, for that matter. None of these men will find the courage and conviction to stand with Jesus and drink from his cup. When the hour of glory arrives, they will scatter like sheep.

Later, of course, things will be different for James and John. They had always been part of the early circle of three disciples who shared a privileged friendship with Jesus, and that intimacy would bear fruit. James would become one of the early martyrs of the church; his death is noted in Acts in 42 A.D. Though less is known of the later life of John, Paul notes in Galatians that Peter, James, and John remained "pillars" in the first-generation church. Slow to grasp the meaning of discipleship, they were at least not incapable of making a

The Sons of Thunder see the light

Isaiah promised that the suffering servant would “see the light in fullness of days” for his willingness to surrender to the will of God made perfect, an event known by Jesus as the “hour of glory.” This kind of glory isn’t the variety sought by worldly folk, and it wasn’t what Zebedee’s sons had in mind. When Jesus talked about greatness in the Kingdom, he meant service (“being the slave of all”) and ransom (paying the blood price for the life of another). It had nothing to do with honors and titles and chairs and cups.

But James and John were the Sons of Thunder, possibly earning this nickname because they called for the wrath of God to come down on the Samaritans who showed no hospitality to their group. They had to unlearn the idea that some are worthier than others, that worthiness is the goal for disciples to begin with. And we, who also forget that glory involves more than being covered with worldly esteem, may have to sacrifice a little of our thunder, too. Those medals of virtue and morality may look shiny to us at the moment, but getting on God’s honor roll is not the point of followership.

Being baptized with Christ’s Baptism

Some of us have gotten the Baptism of Jesus once, and we drink from his cup already. So is there more for us to accomplish? Yes: to participate in his suffering and death, which we will whether we mean to or not. These sacramental signs remind us we are baptized into a death that leads to life everlasting and that God transforms the suffering of the world into a saving act. All that’s left is for us to give our faithful witness by being present to the world’s suffering and dying (including our own), with compassion and without fear.

Needed: A Few Good Men!

The Gaudete Choir (Sun, 11:00 am) is in need of male volunteers to share their time and voices. Of the twenty-one members on our choir roster, six are men and only two of the six are able to sing low. In order to have a balanced sound we need to balance the ratio of men to women. If you are a man who can speak in a strong and clear voice, I will be able to turn that into a strong, clear singing voice. I encourage you to prayerfully discern if you are called to train your voice in the choir and serve the parish in song.
