Welcome to OUR LADY of GRACE!

Welcome to all who are joining us for the celebration of the Eucharist. There are many ways and parish organizations to participate in our life in Christ. See the directory on page 7.

We invite all who attend OLG to become registered members of our parish. Registration forms are available on the table in the main entry of the church or the parish office. Registration allows us to communicate and effectively provide for your needs. It is necessary for baptism, marriage, and godparent or sponsor certification.

Mindfulness of Others—Please silence all devices and refrain from using them during the liturgy. The parish has a Children's Chapel located in the northwest corner of the church. Parents with restless children are welcome to make use of this chapel at any time during Mass should it be necessary. We ask that this chapel, like the church itself, remain free of food and drink.

Allergies—The first morning Mass of the Sunday or holy day will always be incense-free.

Invitation to the R.C.I.A.

Our Lady of Grace Parish welcomes all who seek to enrich their faith life and explore the possibility of becoming a Catholic Christian. Our community shares and celebrates this journey with them through a process called "The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults." If you are curious about what Catholics believe and may be interested in learning more about joining the Catholic faith—or perhaps you are an adult Catholic looking to be fully initiated—you are cordially invited to enter the R.C.I.A. process and experience a new and enriched meaning to your life through renewed faith and love. For more info, please contact Deacon John Sawaya at (858) 869-5079 or jsawaya@olg-church.org.

FOOD AND FELLOWSHIP IN THE PARISH CENTER

All are welcome Sunday mornings after Mass.

Sept 15 Wheelchair Sunday

GUEST COLUMNIST

ALICE CAMILLE

This Man Welcomes Sinners

I like the story about Moses talking God out of smiting the people of Israel off the face of the planet. At what other point in history does a human being hold the moral high ground and teach God how to be compassionate? For a change, it's not we who are arguing for God to wipe out the bad people and God patiently insisting that frail humanity gets another chance to prove itself. Just this once, God has run out of mercy and is ready to show folks who's in charge. If not for the extraordinary forbearance of one particular person, we are given to understand, the base of Mount Sinai would have been washed in blood.

It's interesting to imagine the steep learning curve that brought Moses to this frame of mind. This is the same prince of Egypt who once murdered a taskmaster for beating a Hebrew slave. Moses hardly began this journey as a softhearted fellow willing to give lawbreakers a pass. Nor, the record assures us, is Moses generally a patient sort of guy. He loses his temper along the exodus route regularly enough to warrant correction himself. In fact, there is a point when Moses starts to show a bit of impatience with God, tapping the rock at Meribah twice to get the divine attention. Many believe this impertinence led to his being barred from the promised land in the end.

But a careful reading of this passage alerts us to the idea that Moses never really makes a bid for God's compassion at all. He plays upon God's vanity—what would the neighbors think if the chosen people were terminated? (see the deleted verse 12)—as well as appealing to God's own vows to uphold these people. It's God's word that Moses doesn't want to see compromised by a change of heart toward the descendants of Abraham. Mercy for sinners? The idea hadn't been invented yet.

Where mercy comes from

Perhaps it's fairer to say that humanity was still too spiritually immature to comprehend the compassion of God. After all, God shows a remarkable tenderness to Adam and Eve in fashioning clothes for them once they learned shame. This same kindness is extended to Cain in protecting him with a special mark and repeated countless times in the Hebrew scriptures: to Elijah when his courage fails under the broom tree, to Jonah when he sulks under the shade of the gourd plant. While there are plenty "acts of God" visited upon sinners and attributed to God's wrath—flood, fire, famine, and pestilence, to name a few—God is understood at the same time to relent quite easily and show remarkable restraint for someone who has the power to crush opposition absolutely at a moment's notice.

How else can we appreciate the many psalms that cry to God for leniency? "Have mercy on me, O God, in your goodness," today's prayer begins. God's goodness is presumed, and divine compassion is at least a possibility the sinner can pursue.

Our appreciation of God as the source of abundant mercy comes to full flower in the revelation of Jesus Christ, naturally. After the example of Jesus' teaching, healing, suffering, dying, and ultimate forgiving, can we have any doubts that God's greatest desire for us is to reconcile us to heaven? And yet, sad to say, some Christians still clutch the punitive, angry, out-to-get-us God to their breasts and prefer the idea of judgment to the hope of redemption.

Four stories of being found

Paul of Tarsus was a blasphemer and a persecutor and arrogant, in his own words. Blasphemy was a sin against the second commandment, and persecution a crime somewhere between the fifth and the eighth. Paul's arrogance may well have broken the first commandment, because Paul put his idea of God up above the reality of the Lord he later encountered. Any way you look at it, Paul was in big, big trouble when it came to divine retribution.

But Paul tells us he was mercifully treated because of his ignorance. He seems to appeal to Saint Luke's understanding that God forgives sinners "because they know not what they do." Stumbling around in the moral blindness of a

FROM the PASTOR

VERY REV. PETER M. MCGUINE

Today the Church observes Catechetical Sunday. This year's theme is "Stay with Us," quoting the two disciples on the road to Emmaus who invited Jesus to stay with them (Lk 24:13-35). Our parish is blessed to have Lissa Hutcheson, our new Director of Faith Formation, along with Georgene Kruzel and a team of dedicated volunteer catechists seeking "to echo, or re-sound" the teachings of the Church in the world in which we live. This ministry of teaching in the name of the Church has a profound dignity, which is why this Sunday those the parish has designated to serve as catechists will be commissioned for their ministry at the 11:00 am Mass. We also commend parents and guardians as the primary catechists of their children. They play a vital role in their children's lives as they prepare the soil and plant the first seeds of faith within a faithful family home environment. Catechetical Sunday is a wonderful opportunity to reflect on the role that each person plays, by virtue of his or her Baptism, in handing on the faith and being a witness to the Gospel.

Our Lady, full of grace. Pray for us!

Fr. Peter

sinful world, we do not reject the light so much as fail to recognize it. Once the light is revealed to us, however, we have to seize the opportunity to open our eyes and not turn aside again.

We may be lost in a sinful world, but God's mercy is out to find us. In the gospel parables, the sheep, the coin, and the son are by no means dispensable or overlooked because they are missing. God's mercy is not willing to cut losses or sacrifice a remnant in these parables. God wants 100 percent of our salvation and won't rest until we are given that chance. We are free to fail, it would seem, but not without a struggle will God lose us for good.

Being lost is not an uncommon experience, these stories tell us. Even the brother who never left home is in need of a search party. The father goes out to him because this older son is as ignorant of his father's mercy as the one who expected to be received back as a hired hand. When it comes to apprehending the mystery of forgiveness, it seems, even the most righteous person (maybe especially the righteous one!) doesn't anticipate the breadth of it.

Celebrating mercy

The Eucharist is our premiere sacrament of forgiveness, as the church reminds us. But we have other ways of celebrating the compassion of God, the sacraments of Reconciliation and Anointing being two of the most obvious. We also celebrate God's mercy in the exercise of it in our own relationships: being ready to forgive and willing to help whenever someone is in danger of being lost. We could use more advocates who, like Moses, cast their vote against judgment, even when folks "deserve" it.
